When Baby Is Unwell.

Young mothers are often worried to know what to do when baby is unwell, when he is feverish and cross, cries most of the time, will not go to sleep, refuses to eat, is troubled with his teething.

In all such cases Baby's Own Tablets will be found a safe and reliable remedy, bringing prompt relief to the little one.

The tablets are readily crushed to powder and are therefore easily administered, and as they are pleasant in taste there is never any fuss about taking them.

Baby's Own Tablets quickly allay feverishness, banish constipation, indigestion, colic and "wind," check diarrhoea, relieve croup and colds, cough, worms, and by settling the stomach ease the pain of teething.

There need be no misgivings about their use even for the youngest infant for they are the prescription of a physician who for many years made a study of children's ailments and are guaranteed to be perfectly harmless and entirely free from any opiate or narcotic.

To keep baby happy and healthy there is nothing better than an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. Obtainable at all chemists.

Thousands have enlarged pores and do not know it. Every enlarged pore is due to irritation. Unless you get rid of skin pore irritation, foreign matter collects, and the consequence is unsightly black heads, pimples, blotches, yellow, darkened colour and coarse rough skin.

Citine Tokalon Skin-food, White Colour (non-greasy), now contains a marvellous new soft, creamy wax, extracted from flowers, combined with predigested dairy cream and olive oil. It is tonic, astringent and nourishing—penetrates instantly, soothe irritated skin, closes enlarged pores, dissolves blackheads so that they slough away, whitens and softens darkest, roughest skin. It keeps the skin fresh and delicately moist but not greasy. Equally adapted to take off the shine from an oily skin or sleek shiny nose.

Citine Tokalon Skinfood (White Colour) gives indescribable new skin beauty and freshness in 3 days—such can be obtained in no other way. It should be used every morning. Many an attractive proposal of marriage has been inspired by a lovely soft white skin and beautiful complexion.

LIGHTING FIXTURES MATCH PERIOD FURNITURE

The Lafayette fixture is in brass, clear crystal globe and bands of tone black. At top is a classic modern wrought-brass backplate finished in polished chromium supports crystal glass shade decorated with burnished silver etched of crossed laurel sprays.

By Mary Margaret McBride

New York.—And now, if you please, we have period-lights for our homes to go with our period chairs and chests. It's about time, too. Lighting fixtures have too long been a painful note in home decoration, for no more reason apparently than that housekeepers thought other details more important. The result has been some gruesome-looking objects in most houses and apartments that have stuck out from the walls like sore thumbs—sometimes right next door to old masters, too!

The odd thing about it is that persons of taste long ago realized that if you have a room in the Early American style, let's say, you don't put an Early English or a mission desk in it as a permanent feature. On the contrary, you try, within your pocketbook, of course, to keep all the decorative items in harmony. Except the lights!

Day of Brass Monstrosities Over
But now the artist has been called into the picture and the results are really very nice. The skilled designer has gone right into the factory and firmly banished the brass and bronze monstrosities which were direct descendants of those hideous pipes and globes of gas-jet days.

The new lights are done in many forms and in every architectural or artistic period. Thus, for your early English room, you may get early English fixtures faithful in every detail to the period as well as others to match the early American, Jacobean, Georgian, Empire, Federal or Directoire decorative notes.

Some of these 1934 models use colour cleverly. An early American lantern for instance is scarlet inside, partly because the original from which it was copied was painted scarlet and partly because the scarlet note will brighten up your hall. Other simple and quite lovely fixtures come in Coriscan green and Republic red, gold and white and shining chromium. The variety is great enough to permit of fitting any room with lights which harmonize with, and point up, the entire scheme.

Proper Light Eliminates Glare

Proper lighting is a science to which not nearly enough attention is paid anyway. The commonest mistake of the householder seems to be to confuse glare with light.
Shining bulbs and insufficient shading or frosting mean eye strain for those who try to work or read by them. And then there is the important matter of devising a lighting that will flatter both homefolks and guests. A glare certainly will not, what with everybody blinking and winking and looking ghastly under its irritating influence.

Centre lights seem to be coming back as a result of the new artistic influence. Lurelle Guild, the designer, has turned out some ceiling fixtures that have the great asset of both direct and indirect lighting. That is, they have the usual visible bulbs and also have in the centre bowl hidden bulbs which reflect the light up towards the ceiling.

Avoid Over-use of Centre Light.
Even though you may like the design, don't keep your centre light on all the time. It's all right for company, but home evenings turn out better for everybody if you depend upon lamps and wall brackets.
A lighting authority declares one wall bracket every fifteen feet is a good rule to follow, but the best way is to use your own judgment about this.

Lamps, luckily are following the general trend and becoming simpler and more classic with fewer meaningless danglers and trick shades. And no lamp should be so high, remember, that it shows a bright and unshaded bulb glaring out from under the shade!

CHAPTER XLVIII

The maples flow red banners against a sky of heavenly blue. The air was crisp and bracing here under the old trees with a boy of four spread-eagled in a sand pile and two or three white-capped workmen loitering among the shavings.

Two women came out of the house and stood on the porch. One was slight, with flyaway dark curls and an apricot flush on her cheek. The other had crisp red hair under her white felt hat. She was smiling.

"I think you've done wonders to the place," she said eagerly. "Who would have thought of making that old barn into a studio?"

"The school will be open next week," said the dark-haired one with animation. "I have two helpers already. Of course it's an experiment so we can't promise much in the way of money. We have three groups. The juniors, from 18 months to two and a half; and the runabouts who can go from that to four. (David is in that.) And then the seniors. They're the real kindergartners, of course—the average pre-school children. Why don't you come in?"

"Oh, I'd love to, Gypsy," cried Sue Gibson. "I wonder if I could! I don't know a thing about the work but I was wondering what on earth I'd do with myself this winter. Of course while Hunt and I were in Mexico I was busy—it was fascinating. I learned Spanish. I even took a course in archaeology, although half the time I didn't know what Professor de Mores was talking about. But it was good practice."

"Well, talk it over with Hunt anyway," said Gypsy, encouraging. "You'll be in an apartment, so if you don't go in for golf or bridge or something you'll have time on your hands."

"Plenty of that," said Sue soberly. "Gypsy, he really is a pet—Davy. I mean, you don't know how I envy you!"

"He's sweet," the dark-haired young woman's eyes shone. "But do you know, if I could have been out here that first year instead of in an apartment everything would have been different. I used to think I would go crazy, cooped up there in the city, with nothing to look out at—nothing to do, really, although Davy's needs kept me busy enough. That's the trouble with the first years of marriage," she mused. "You're getting used to an entirely different kind of life—no one really prepares you for it. Somehow you have a feeling that it's just going to be a continuation of the parties and showers everyone has been giving for you. And then suddenly you're cook and chambermaid and nurse and you don't know what it's all about."

"You didn't seem to have any bumps the first year, though," Sue said, pulling her white gloves on. "You and Tom always got on beautifully."

"Didn't I, though?" Gypsy's eyes crinkled reminiscently. "Well, I was pretty silly and half-baked, I can tell you. I used to go to Lila's to a party and come home and be discontented for a week. Tom was sweet. He knew it was bad for me but he didn't say a word. Then when he was working hard, trying desperately to get a foothold in the office, I'd crab if he were kept late. I'd be horrid and suspicious and jealous. Don't be jealous, Sue," she interrupted herself to say. "It spoils everything. Half the time it's something manufactured out of your own head. If I'd had some work that interested me—or if I had been able to get away from the baby often, keep my brains dusted off, I never would have been like that. That's what we hope to do for the girls around here. They won't have to worry about their children four mornings a week. We're keeping the fee down so that almost anyone can afford it. And we're going to have lots of fun."

"How did you happen to find this place?" Sue wanted to know, leading the way to her little car, parked under the big sugar maple which was already shedding its autumn effulgence all over the driveway.

"Well, we were in the market. I don't know whether I ever told you—the cabin at Wading Hollow burned down. That village idiot who frightened me out of my wits barged in there one night when the place was empty and upset the oil stove. He was—she shuddered over the words—"he was horribly burned and died. We had a little insurance but not much and we were just sick over it. Then the state went around, buying up land for Whipple Beach (I guess you haven't heard of that; it's been done since you went to Mexico). Anyhow, it's a marvellous stretch of beach—belongs to the public. They made a bid for our place and it was wonderful, getting the money in one fell swoop. That was just about the time Tom had started out at once in pursuit of a house. Tom doesn't mind the commuting and he thought it would be grand to be near the family."

"Nice he gets on with them so well," Sue murmured. "Oh, Mums adores him. If he were her own son she couldn't be fonder. Well, we found this place. The house wasn't in bad shape. It's 100 years old, you know, but it had been remodelled about 20 years ago by some artist and his wife who had to go west. The barn was a big old ramshackle place but it had fine beams and a good foundation. We concentrated on the house first. Paint and plumbing and whatnot. Whipple Beach was our fairy godmother."

"It's charming," Sue glanced back at the white house, crouched in the shade of arching trees. The verandah was furnished with deep chairs and scattered tables.

"Then I had this brainstorm about the nursery school. It will be fun for me and maybe some day I'll make some money. Tom is as enthusiastic as I am. He spends weekends hammering and sandpapering. We've just about finished. Come around a week from Monday and I'll show you our student body. All in pink rompers."

"I will," Sue promised. She was leaning on the car door now and Sue reflected to herself that really she did not look a scrap older than on that gala day five years before when she had walked up the aisle of the little church in Blue Hills, Tom Weaver's bride. Her brown curls were as lustrous as ever and the apricot flush still lingered in her rounded cheeks. She was wearing her working costume—a striped jersey shirt. She looked almost like a rosy boy, the kind of figure you see in posters advertising the Breton countryside. Only when she turned and swooped the overalled child by her side into her arms and buried her face in his sunburned neck—you saw she was not a boy at all, but a woman, warm, eager, loving.

Sue sighed again. "If I had a child."

"You will," Gypsy prophesied. David struggled to be free and she set him squarely down upon his feet and he grinned at her engagingly. "Doesn't like to be babied," Gypsy said inaudibly.

"I'm goin' to build a house myself," the boy boasted. "Better'n the men."

"Of course you are," Gypsy surveyed him with pride. "Call me when you've finished. I want to see." The child strutted away, proud and zestful.

Sue lingered, her hand fumbling for the ignition key. "I declare I wish I hadn't promised to go to Elsie Wilbur's tea," she said. "I'd like to stop here all afternoon. We haven't talked things out. There are dozens of people I want to know about. By the way, what ever became of Lila Bliss? The last I heard of her she was cutting a great swathe abroad."

Gypsy shook her head. "Poor Lila! She felt miserable about being mixed up in that English divorce case. It wasn't in the least her fault."

"Well, maybe not," observed Sue. "You always had a soft spot for her. I must say I couldn't see her, ever."

"She was undisciplined—we all were," Gypsy defended. Sue burst out laughing. "You talk a grey-beard, my dear. You must be all of 27."

"I've learned a lot," Gypsy told her soberly. "I've learned to keep quiet and smile when I feel like flying into a temper. I've had to learn lots, for David's sake. That's one thing motherhood teaches you—self-control."

"Well, you're an angel and I love you. Look for me some day next week," Sue flung back as she started the car. The last glimpse she had of Gypsy was a dark blue figure silhouetted against the clear haze of the September sky, as she argued tempestuously with a car-penter. Was it possible, Sue thought, driving off, that she had ever been jealous of her friend? Ridiculous and yet true. She had suffered torments over it. Now Hunt was hers. Gypsy had been married five whole years. They were all getting staid and settled. No more flurries . . . no heart-breaks . . .

Marriage changes us all, Sue thought. Some for the worse (there was Lila!) and some for the better.

In the candlelight, with Clytie's second daughter, Annie, coming to and fro with hot food in the blue dishes, Gypsy told Tom about Sue's visit. Gypsy had changed her black and jersey for an organdie frock striped and plaided in pale green. Her lovely neck and shoulders were bare. The old dining room with its white panelled ment Conference is due in a large measure to its policy of drift and indefiniteness. Other countries complain with some justification that they never know where Sir John Simon stood. Nobody knows where the Government stands in foreign policy. It would be beyond the power of the acutest intellect to produce a clear statement of British foreign policy.

It is precisely the same in the Government's domestic policy. There is no unity, no definite purpose, no intelligible ideal in anything it attempts.

The Government has an enormous and obedient majority. It would have the country wholly behind it in the most drastic proposals it made. The country would even excuse failures if there were evidence of a real desire to do something of real value. Even on non-party issues the Government has failed to rise to the expectations of the nation. Public opinion is ready for an attack on slums and overcrowding which would speedily put an end to this hideous evil.

Instead of tackling this problem with vigour, it has been content with paper schemes, and reliance upon other people to do the job.

This housing problem should be tackled as a country would face a war or a pestilence. It is, in fact, a pestilence, and a bold and drastic attack, at almost any material cost, would be gladly supported by the country.

The land question is at the root of the housing problem. The monopoly of the land crowds the population into slums; it extorts extravagant prices for every need of public improvement; it enriches the landowner by allowing him to appropriate land values, which are rising rapidly around every urban area.

The Government, instead of dealing with this public scandal, has found time to repeal the modest effort which was made by the previous Government to deal with this question. By this act it has shown a petty partisan spite wholly inconsistent with its claim to be a National Government.

The Government has at its head a man whose vanity and weakness and incoherence will be the nation's undoing if he continues in office.

I say this with the deepest conviction: If this Government continues much longer in power the country is faced with disaster at home and abroad.

FULL ACCORD

BRITAIN AND FRANCE IN AGREEMENT

London, July 10. M. Barthou and the other French delegates left for Paris at 4.30 p.m. to-day.

"We have examined, with mutual good faith, all questions with a common interest, and have ascertained that we are in accord as far as the European situation is concerned," stated M. Barthou, when interviewed.

"The result of my journey has filled me with sincere joy," he added.—United Press.

Naval Aspects.

London, July 10. The Foreign Office communiqué issued after the Simon-Barthou talks to-day lays stress on the "particularly cordial character of the conversations."

Following the afternoon meeting at the Admiralty, it is reliably stated that M. Pietri, French Navy Minister, has decided to remain in London for several days after M. Barthou's departure on Thursday.

This news is interpreted as an indication that M. Pietri and Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell are determined to explore further the possibility of preparing for the naval conference, regardless of the difficulties presented by the Italian projects for building two 35,000-ton battleships.—United Press.

NAVAL PARLEY.

Appointment of Japanese Technical Delegate.

London, July 10. The Japanese Minister of Marine has announced the appointment of Captain Iwashita as Japanese delegate to the preliminary naval conversations in London. He leaves Tokyo on July 12, and will be in a position to give all necessary advice on technical matters, when the Anglo-Japanese exchange of views takes place.

Meanwhile, the Japanese Embassy is being kept in close touch with the discussion of matters relating to procedure.—British Wireless.

INDO-CHINA'S PROBLEMS

FRENCH CONSUL'S TALK

Some interesting facts regarding Indo-China and the way that country is facing the present world crisis were given by M. G. Dufaure de la Prade, Consul General for France in Hongkong, at yesterday's Rotary Club dinner at the Roof Garden of the Hongkong Hotel.

Nicotine? Not at all. That is tobacco tar — the dark brown, semi-solid, intensely irritant product of burning leaf. You see what it does to your fingers — think what it does to your throat! That's what causes the coughing and catarrh, the burning, the dried-up feeling. . . . The filter tip of a du Maurier traps tobacco tar. Nicotine — suave enchantment — lives in the cool, full-flavoured smoke of a du Maurier cigarette. Smoke that is smoother for being unspoiled — better for being clean.

PEAK TRAMWAY EXTENSION

There is general agreement amongst regular patrons of the Peak tramway service with the view expressed by the Chairman of the operating company, at its recent annual meeting, that if permission can be secured and the necessary land acquired, the line should be extended down to Queen's Road. So much is evident from the opinions expressed in our evening contemporary by various residents who have been approached on the subject. The desirability of the extension is beyond question, but, as the Chairman of the Company has pointed out, the land required is owned by the military authorities, and negotiations to acquire it have so far been unsuccessful. From the practical standpoint, even assuming willingness on the part of the War Department to surrender the land needed for the extension, there is the question of cost to be faced. So far, there has been no indication of how much money would be required, to cover the purchase of the land and the carrying out of the scheme, but obviously it would be considerable. The question naturally arises whether there would be any prospect of the Company being able to recoup itself for the heavy expenditure involved. Already, the effects of motor competition are being felt, and when the new motor road to Magazine Gap is opened up, as it will be within a few months, this factor will be even further emphasised. Granting the desirability of bringing the terminus nearer to the centre of the town, the question, so far as the Company is concerned, resolves itself into the most economical method of making the extension. Actually, the problem is not one of great magnitude; it involves the devising of an expeditious means of covering the three hundred yards of road between the existing terminus and the down-town level. The simplest and least costly method would appear to be the provision of a feeder service by the Company. This could be done by utilising motor buses for the purpose. The great advantage of this plan would be that the terminus could, in effect, be brought even nearer still to the centre of the city than the foot of Garden Road. Buses, operating, say, from Chater Road, could provide a service fitting in with the tramway timetable. To residents and tourists alike, such a feeder service would be a marked improvement on existing conditions and would be even more convenient than an extension of the tramway down to Queen's Road. It could possibly be maintained on the basis of a five-cent bus fare from the town to the tramway.

NOTES OF THE DAY

STRIKE VIOLENCE

When strikes boil over into pitched street warfare of the kind seen recently in the United States, in Toledo, Minneapolis and San Francisco, beyond doubt they cease to rank as industrial disputes and come perilously close to class war. The violence of San Francisco has a significance far more weighty than is involved in an argument between workers and employers. It is futile, that is, to try and understand the troubles by discussing the specific demands that the longshoremen are making and the refusal of the employers to negotiate except upon their own terms. Fighting as serious as that witnessed last week has a deeper reason than disagreement about conditions of employment.

PHYSIC SCAR

Something is on the workers' minds—something that makes them angry and reckless enough to risk policemen's clubs, tear gas, and national guardmen's bullets. No matter how much we may deplore the results, it would be foolish if no attempt was made to find out just what it is that is wrong. It seems highly probable that basically the trouble comes from a deep discontent with the way the recovery programme is working out. The United States is just emerging from a period of extreme hardship. All have suffered during the depression, but few have had quite such a thin time of it as the wage-earner. It has left him with what might be called a psychic scar that will be a long time healing.

SAME OLD WAY

Bearing that scar, the worker makes ready for the new deal and finds that in many cases it is being played with the same old cards, in the same old way. Fine words about human rights have been said at Washington, but they haven't been put into effect. There are still employers who look back to Homestead for lessons in the way to handle labour troubles. There are still officials who forget that they are representative of all residents in a State and are not entitled to take sides in an industrial dispute. And Washington still postpones the job of formulating a definite and clear-cut labour policy. All this, of course, does not excuse the violence. It does not bring dead men back to life, or make it right to toss bricks at policemen and troopers. But it does help in understanding and it is vital that we get such understanding.

FORCE—OR REASON?

Then again, those American citizens who like Socialism or class warfare east should be most concerned about the "same old way" of combatting them. One of the best ways of creating bitter feelings, intensifying opposition to the employers are the ten-gas manners of City and State authorities. In the deplorable events of the past few months, America has been far too speedy in resort to counter-violence of an extreme type and almost every incident has been aggravated. The spirit of these times reflects, it would seem, an attitude that has been all too common in political thinking, by the privileged and those placed in authority—conveniently forgetting who placed them in their positions. It is the same attitude that prescribes force in settling differences between nations; the old belief that force is really an adequate substitute for reason.

PARENTS AND MOVIES

Where lies the responsibility when children see undesirable motion pictures? The responsibility of the producers is too obvious to need discussion—but what measure of it belongs to all parents? Some are only too aware of their responsibility, but feel quite unable to cope with the problem. The argument presents itself in this light: "All neighbour boys and girls go to the pictures continually so how can I possibly keep Tommy at home?" This may seem difficult, but where the programme is undesirable it is an inescapable duty. That is partly the spirit behind the "League of Decency" organised by the churches in the United States, which has already made the film industry think. Nevertheless, a movement of Blue Stockings is obviously liable to become a confounded nuisance and an imposition. When films for adults are in question the individual judgment of suitability is as sound as any, in the long run.

We offer this suggestion as a constructive contribution to the discussion now proceeding, and as one which, whilst entering to public needs, would not involve the Company in heavy capital outlay.

BACK INTO THE DOGFIGHT

By VISCOUNT SNOWDEN

I HAVE not taken an active part in politics since I resigned from the Government eighteen months ago. My time has been occupied with other work, which is now finished. I did not retire in 1931 to do this work. I should have been in the Government now had that been possible. My difference with the majority of my colleagues on the tariff question was not the only reason for my resignation. The general policy of the Government was clearly tending in directions I could not approve. I became convinced that if I remained in office I should be committed to the support of a Government which had lost its national character and become a party government.

The Prime Minister has become a mere Tory instrument. The Labour point of view and the Labour programme received from him no consideration. He fought for neither.

The Prime Minister had declared that it was a Government where the three parties constituting it would contribute their own views, and that out of this pooling of ideas a great constructive programme would be evolved. But it was impressed on me that there was only one party policy which would be accepted, and that the Government was rapidly falling into the rut where all former Governments had floundered, and that it would muddle along without any conception of the urgent need for a new inspiration in government. Events have tragically justified my anticipations.

In my letter of resignation I said: "I have no party allegiance; but I hope to be able to serve in an independent political position the causes in which I believe, and to help according to my lights to promote the welfare of my country."

I am now free to carry out that intention. The national situation calls for all the nation's reserves as loudly as it did in 1931.

Conditions to-day are not normal. Never in our history, probably, was the national situation more critical; never more full of menace; never was the call to action more imperative. The time is past when the nation could muddle along in the old, complacent way, waiting for things to right themselves. The present situation calls for new policies, new aims, and a clear vision. It calls for courageous leadership.

A vast number of people are losing their faith in Parliament as an institution capable of redressing grievances and grappling adequately with social evils. It is idle folly to imagine that this country is immune from the influences which have overthrown democratic government in other lands.

If the responsible leaders of the nation cannot, or will not, face up to the new situation they run serious risks of being overthrown by wild and passionate adventurers promising a short cut to prosperity. Old party ties no longer command the support of different followers. The general lassitude at elections means more than is generally imputed to it. The small polls are an indication of lost faith in Parliament.

Parliament can yet be saved by a Government which realises the danger, led by men who have the courage and know how to lead. Instead of that we have a Government which gives the impression that its sole concern is to keep itself in office, and which is obsessed by a conceited belief in its own indispensability.

With an offener without precedent in politics, it advertises its great achievements, and claims credit for a moderate improvement in trade which, if not temporary and artificial, is the result of natural world movements.

The Government looks with complacency upon the continued existence of over two millions of unemployed, and upon an increasing number of families existing on Poor Law relief. The only hope it gives the people is that in ten years' time things will improve!

It has sent out a Commission to explore the derelict districts and to inquire into facts which have been known to everybody for years. Here are vast areas where tens of thousands of men have been out of work for years, and where the population has sunk into a state of hopelessness and despair and of appalling physical deterioration. Juveniles are growing up to manhood without ever having had any employment, and with no prospect other than that of being permanently unemployable.

The old industries have left these districts, never to return. Here is a problem which a Government of action would resolutely tackle by organising large schemes of alternative employment. This Government meets the problem by offering £50,000 for allotments, on condition that private charity raises a similar sum!

These derelict areas are a breeding-ground for Communism and other forms of revolutionary activity. No one could blame, even when he deplores, the wild thinking of these poor people. Nothing could be worse than the present, they argue, and things might be better if they substitute for an inept Parliament some less cumbersome machinery for improving their lot. The Government has been too cowardly to face a recent by-election in one of these distressed areas. But the danger comes not from these human derelicts only. It would not be so meeting if it were so. The restlessness of to-day is widespread.

The present unrest is as prevalent among the middle salary-earning classes as it is among the wage-earning classes. The black-coated proletariat and the workless professional classes are filled with a bitterness of spirit unmatched in previous times.

The British Government, which does not realise all this and which does not set itself to deal with it, cutting away the dead wood of ancient laws and regulations, red tape, decayed precedents, in order to do so, is deliberately encouraging revolutionary activity in our midst.

If it be true, as it undoubtedly is, that Parliament has fallen into contempt it is equally true that there never was a time when more men and women were interested in economics and politics. In this fact is both menace and hope.

In everything it has done or attempted so far the Government has shown a lamentable lack of leadership. The failure of the Disarmament Conference is a case in point.

The Very Idea!

RINGING WET

By George

THE telephone hoax is having its repercussions.

Having heard practically every possible excuse from the girl for being late we thought we had her cornered last night when she turned up 20 minutes past the appointed hour.

"Aint I prompt?" she smiled, (we should mention that the girl is not very strong on grammar).

"No you aint," we said darkly. "Only 20 minutes late."

"Why George, you 'phoned up to say you couldn't get here till 7.20 p.m. . . ."

A force argument followed which only the theory of the telephone hoax prevented from becoming a fight.

Anyway we now have a little password so we shall either find the hoaxer or she will have to find a new excuse.

And there has been other trouble too. The office rang us up just as we were going off for a night swimming picnic.

"Is that you, George? Well you'll have to come to the office and do some work. When can you get over?"

"Sorry. Can't be helped. I should save that for The Very Idea."

"I don't believe I'm wanted at all. It's a joke."

Well you better laugh it off in the office or explain to the Old Man in the morning."

"I'm not coming over. It's a hoax."

And thereupon we rang off and trotted away.

Came the dawn . . . We have just left the Old Man still only partly convinced. Nowadays we don't want to hear a telephone ring.

There is a chit on our desk to the effect that Wilson has rung up inviting us toiffin.

We tear it up and throw it into the waste paper basket.

Fortunately there are some things that are past belief.

THE HORSE.

(Extracts From Little Ada's Exercise Book)

The horse. The horse is a noble animal and has been called man's best friend ever since (or because of) the Garden of Eden (though teacher says it was a snake what done the trick and not the apple).

Some horses are built for speed but others only look that way. Teacher says that racing is a wicked sport and that it hurts the horse's feelings when money is placed on its chances of winning. The horse feels that the game is the thing and will often slow down behind the other horses so as to have the fun of trying to catch them up.

If it fails to do so it will take its defeat in a sporting manner and smiling bravely at the owner. Its large brown eyes will seem to say: "Never mind, master, I am not discouraged."

The admirable thing about a horse is that it never gives up. If it is entered in a long race it insists on finishing the course if it takes half an hour longer to do it.

The horse can easily be distinguished from the owner as the latter is invariably seen with a cigar.

Another motorist has reported that his "Baby" has been kidnapped and long grass in the vicinity is being diligently thrashed by the police in the hope of solving the mystery.

The car was driven away from Statue Square and it is believed that violence must have been used as the owner indignantly declared to us this morning that nothing short of a gallon of milk would induce it to follow a stranger. A certain amount of lese majeste attaches to the crime as the car was parked under the statue of Queen Victoria.

A wit who suggested that the pockets of the statues be searched was curtly informed by the I.G.P. that he was not amused. However he left a bottle of milk on the baby's parking site and examined the statues next morning when the milk had disappeared without the return of the truant.

Suggestions have been made to prevent a repetition of these wholesale removals, either by taking off the wheels of the car and taking them home or letting parked cars to street sleepers at a nominal fee.

"Yes, I reckon we can give you a room if you're sure you ain't hold-up men."

Japan's Challenge

BRITISH COTTON LOOM FIGURES

London, July 10.

The total number of world cotton looms at the end of 1933 shows little change as compared with 1930, the decrease being 28,800.

The European total is 67,645 lower mainly as the result of a decrease of 104,935 in Great Britain.

There has also been a reduction of 85,322 looms in the United States, but increases are reported in Russia, Japan, China and India.

The figures have been made available in the second international cotton loom census issued by the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners.

The total number of looms in place throughout the world is estimated to be 3,130,000, which are distributed as follows:

Britain	588,000
Japan	277,000
India	190,000
U.S.A.	614,000

These compare with 3,159,000 looms in 1930, with Great Britain's 693,000, India, 180,000, Japan, 188,000 and America, 699,000.

The proportion of automatic machinery looms in Europe seems to be increasing with remarkable steadiness, there being 13,994 in Great Britain, as compared with 11,810 three years ago. An increase is also shown in Japan from 15,000 to 21,000, but the United States shows a decline.—Reuter.

BARTHO-SIMON AGREEMENT

French Ministers, which were concluded at the Foreign Office this morning, have made it possible for the two Governments clearly to appreciate their respective points of view on the questions under discussion.

"These questions have included the French proposals for additional mutual security in Eastern Europe, the future of the Disarmament Conference and preparation for the Naval Conference of 1935.

"In connection with this last point Monsieur Pietri will remain in London for a few days longer."

LUNCH WITH MR. BALDWIN.

This morning's conversations lasted two and a half hours and at their conclusion, the two French Ministers, accompanied by Sir John Simon, crossed over to No. 11 Downing Street to take luncheon with Mr. Stanley Baldwin.

In the afternoon, the naval conversations were continued at the Foreign Office between Mr. Pietri and Sir John Simon and Sir Bolton Eyre-Mousell.—British Wireless.

NEWFOUNDLAND AFFAIRS

DEVELOPMENT PLANS OUTLINED

London, July 10.

Answering a Parliamentary question regarding the economic situation in Newfoundland, the Dominions Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas, said the Commission of Government had already made considerable progress with development schemes in Newfoundland and Labrador, and authority had recently been given for special development expenditure of £1,300,000, to be financed by long-term loans from the Colonial Development Fund.

This expenditure would be devoted to the building of fishing vessels for purchase by fishermen on the instalment plan, to road construction with a view to facilitating agricultural settlement, and to development of a harbour at Port au Basques, the railway terminus on the west coast.—British Wireless.

Leaving the Colony on the Empress of Russia on Friday, are Mr. and Mrs. G. Findson; Mr. R. Y. Frost, who is a member of the staff of the Atlantic Petroleum Co. in Canton, and his wife; Miss H. D. Sawyer, headmistress of the Diocesan Girls' School and Miss E. S. Atkins, headmistress of St. Stephen's Girls' College.

BENEFIT CONCERT

FOR SERGT'S WIDOW AND CHILDREN

A grand variety benefit concert is to be held in the China Fleet Club Theatre on Wednesday, July 25, for the widow and two children of the late Sergt. Frank Richardson, of the R.A.O.C., who died last week. Many well-known local artistes will appear.

The arrangements are in the hands of the committee who have been responsible for running the tombolas and whist drives for the entertainment of the troops in Hongkong.

Reserved seats will be available at $2.50 and $1, and unreserved, seats at 50 cents.

Further details will be published later.

SHENSI FAMINE

T.V. SOONG ARRANGES RELIEF LOAN

Shanghai, July 10.

Prior to his departure for Tsingtao, Mr. T. V. Soong completed arrangements with certain Chinese bankers and the National Economic Council for the remittance of $1,500,000 to the Shensi Provincial Government for relieving rural districts.

According to a message from Tainanfu, General Han Fu-chu is proceeding to Tsingtao to meet Mr. Soong to-night.—Central News.

WHEAT & CORN

U.S. PRODUCTION ESTIMATES

New York, July 10.

A preliminary estimate by the U.S. Government of U.S.A. wheat production amounts to 484,000,000 bushels, as compared with 511,304,000 bushels in 1933.

Corn production was estimated at 2,113,000,000 bushels as compared with 2,330,237,000 in 1933. These estimates are considered very bullish.—Sloan, Culbertson and Fritz.

CHINESE NAVAL STUDENTS

Nanking, July 11.

The Nanking Ministry of Navy is sending five students to England to study at a naval college. They are expected to complete their courses in two years.—Central News.

The Society for the Protection of Children gratefully acknowledges the following donations, received through the Hon. Sir Shouan Chow and Mr. Kwok Chan:—Mr. Tam Shu-hong, $100; Mr. Choi Po-tin, $100; Mr. Ha Chung-chau, $100; Mr. Chan Wa-man, $100; Mr. Lo Chung-wa, $100; Mr. Kwong Tze-ming, $100; Mr. Lai Chan-sun, $100; Mr. N. The Hongkong International Photographic Society start their series of instructive talks to-morrow (Thursday), when, at 5.30 p.m. in the S.C.M. East Board Room, Mr. P. A. Dragon will give an address on: "Hints on Competitive Photography, with special reference to the Telegraph Competition." Members and their friends are cordially invited to attend.

Mr. A. T. Hamilton also leaves on the Empress of Russia for Vancouver, where he will join his wife, who left on a holiday a short time ago. They will both return to the Colony on the Empress of Russia.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

IT IS TIME TO FEAR WHEN TYRANTS SEEM TO KISS.—Shakespeare.

One case each of diphtheria, meningitis and puerperal fever with one death, two cases of typhoid with one death and 53 deaths from tuberculosis were reported during the week ended July 7. There was a clean bill of health for the Colony on Monday.

The wedding is announced to take place on August 22 at the Union Church, Kennedy Road, of Mr. Reginald Robert Davies and Miss Dorothy Maude Biggs. The Rev. E. G. Powell will officiate at the ceremony, while Mr. A. C. Beck will be best man. Mr. Davies, who resides at 608, The Peak, is a member of the staff of Mackintosh's Ltd. Miss Biggs, who arrives in the Colony on August 18 by the Blue Funnel liner Hector, hails from Southwick, near Brighton.

BUFFALO FIGHTS CROCODILE

Thrilling Struggle In North Australia

Mr. Harrison Ross who has just returned to civilisation at Mt. Isa, Queensland, after big game shooting in Northern Australia, described to Austral News a unique fight which he saw on the Adelaide River between a crocodile and several buffaloes.

With an aboriginal boy he was taking cover about sunrise when a herd of buffaloes appeared making for the water. "I saw great bulls," he said, "with a horn spread of fully eight to ten feet."

The herd had watered and had left the river, and moved to some little distance, excepting a cow and a calf, when suddenly there was a terrific commotion on the bank of the river. Then the startled traveller saw a huge crocodile, with its jaws fast to the cow's head and making frantic efforts to drag the beast into the river.

While the unusual battle raged the aboriginal, who had perched in a tree over Mr. Ross's head, became panicky, lost his grip and fell on top of Mr. Ross, whose rifle immediately went off. Owing to the din caused by the bellowing herd, the muffled bellows of the desperate cow, and the smashing of timber, the report was apparently unperceived. In order to obtain a clearer vision of the battle Mr. Ross climbed to the perch which had been vacated by the aboriginal, where he had an uninterrupted view of the struggle.

The buffalo calf was swept in to the water with one flick of the crocodile's vicious tail, and a second crocodile promptly seized it, made off down stream, and disappeared.

Meanwhile the herd of buffaloes, which were ranging some 50 yards away, were bellowing madly, when, like an arrow, an old bull, weighing close on a ton, rushed with lowered head to the cow's rescue. "A struggle ensued, which," said Mr. Ross, "is almost unbelievable. The big bull made strenuous efforts to get his great cumbersome six-foot spread of horns under the crocodile, but the latter did not relax his grip one fraction. Again, and again the valiant old bull charged, until one of his horns hung loose. Several other bulls joined in the fight and eventually the crocodile, sore from the heavy punishment, tossed his grip, and crawled into the river."

Two days later Mr. Ross shot the crocodile. It was 18 feet long, and its body bore the marks of the battle it had lost.

SURGEON'S ART GIVES NEW FACE

PIECES SENT IN A BOTTLE

With her face frightfully injured as result of a motor car accident, a woman from Wellington, New Zealand has arrived in Sydney to receive treatment from a plastic surgeon in Sydney.

Six small pieces of her face, which had been picked up on the road by a policeman after the smash, arrived with her by the same vessel, in a large bottle according to the official record at the private hospital where the woman lies.

The authorities at the New Zealand hospital to which she was taken realised that it was a case for expert plastic surgery, of which Sydney is the home in the southern hemisphere. So she was sent there, and, also, in preservation of the pieces of her face which had been mutilated when she was precipitated through the windscreen of her car.

The surgeon expects to have the flesh completely grafted in a few weeks, says Austral News.

RUBBER PRICES

FAVOURABLE OUTLOOK FOR COMMODITY

London, July 10. The strength of the price of rubber and rubber shares has rather mystified some quarters, who expected a recession in view of the statistical position, and the seasonal falling off of consumption.

It seems that the support is forthcoming in anticipation of the definite results, which are expected by the end of the year. Therefore, it is anticipated by some circles that the market will gather fresh strength as the year progresses.

It is pointed out that the moderate restriction operating during the next few months will coincide with the seasonal slackening of manufacturing demand. From Amsterdam state that rumours that the natives are continuing to tap to the fullest extent have been officially denied by the Home Office.

The Dutch East Indies for April amounted to 21,000 tons, for May 27,000 tons; and a further 2,000 tons have been placed under the control of the Customs, which stocks are outside the restriction scheme.

During June the native exports from the entire Dutch East Indies amounted to 16,000, which is most satisfactory.

If no further rise in the price occurs, the reduction of exports to the basic quota may soon be expected. Reuter.

POLISH FASCISTS

GOVERNMENT DISSOLVES RIGHT WING PARTY

Warsaw, July 10.

The Minister for the Interior has issued a decree ordering the dissolution of the Radical Right Wing organisation, "The National Radical Party," which is a Fascist group.

Setting forth the grounds for the dissolution, the decree states that the organisation has been "spreading racial hatred, class war and leading in street fighting."

The dissolution has already begun in Warsaw, where the Party's headquarters have been placed under seal.

The Party has 30,000 members, mainly youths, and had a militia modelled on the German Brown Shirts.—United Press.

YORKS DROP MORE COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP POINTS

LANCASHIRE CREEPING UP ON SUSSEX

LEADERS HELD TO A DRAW BY ESSEX: NOTTS WIN

London, July 10. Although Sussex were held to a draw and Lancashire gained a substantial win against Northants, there has been no change in the leadership of the county championship.

Yorkshire dropped further back thanks to a first innings defeat by Surrey, and Kent, who were up to the beginning of last week in third position, found themselves half way down the table as a result of losing further points.

With hard and dry wickets the general experience, the bat beat the ball in the majority of games, and three encounters were left without any definite result.

Gloucester and Lancashire both won handsomely against weak teams. Northants added further to their miserable record by losing by an innings to the Red Rose.

In this match Tyldesley was the outstanding batsman, compiling 122, allowing Lancashire to aggregate 409.

Against the deliveries of Sibbles and Parkinson (the latter a comparatively "unknown" player), Northants could make no sort of a show, and were rapidly disposed of for a total of 341 in two innings.

SMART GLOUCESTER WIN.

Gloucester scored a smart victory against Glamorgan. They were 103 runs behind on the first innings, but the Welshmen collapsed in their second innings, leaving Gloucester to score 237 to win. These were obtained for the loss of three wickets.

Notts completely outplayed Warwick to win by ten wickets, despite some fine batting by Santall, who in the losers' first knock scored 130, and followed this up with an 81.

The veteran Philip Mead again enjoyed himself at the expense of Kent, hitting up 198. He received good support from Kennedy (130) and Hampshire finally totalled 628. Kent made a bold reply, and thanks largely to Frank Woolley (122) saved the following day's match. Hampshire played out time hitting up 212 for 6.

TWELVE HUNDRED RUNS.

No less than twelve hundred runs were scored in the Sussex v Essex match, and a conclusive result was out of the question. Sussex took first innings points, due to a big score of 461 for 6 declared. Chief run-getters were A. Melville (95) and John Parks (93).

Essex responded well with 323 and forced Sussex to bat again. They hit up 215 for 3 and then declared, but Essex easily saved the game, playing out time by compiling 204 for six wickets.

Facing a score of 372, Surrey did well to beat Yorkshire on the first innings. Mitchell, batting brilliantly for the champions to score 181, while Gover's figures of 6 for 102 expressed a remarkable piece of bowling.

An innings of 123 by Watt, and substantial contributions by several other players saw Surrey aggregate 465 in reply, and they then dismissed Yorkshire for 277 in their return to the crease.

Surrey did not have an altogether easy time in their last innings, and at the close had lost four wickets for 45 runs.—Reuter.

LEAGUE OFFERS TO LARWOOD

Australia Rings Him Up For News.

And still they grow—these stories about Larwood, the Notts and England express bowler.

The latest is that a leading Lancashire League Club was to offer him £40 a week to play for them, with £10 a week in the winter; and that this season might be his last in first-class cricket.

The £40-a-week story was treated as a joke by Lancashire League officials. It is, however, a fact that offers have been made to Larwood to play in League cricket.

Larwood admitted this to a press correspondent.

But he added that he had not accepted any offer and was not likely to do so.

So much interest is being taken in Larwood that he was rung up from Australia at 6.30 in the morning and asked for an interview. He refused to say a word.

CHINA AND 1936 WORLD GAMES

Decision To Send Team To Berlin

Nanking, July 6. China's participation in the World Olympics to be held at Berlin, 1936, was decided at a meeting of the Physical Education Committee of the Ministry of Education yesterday. The National Amateur Athletic Federation will be entrusted with the duty of making arrangements.

It was also decided that the Ministry of Education be requested to order the various Provincial Departments and Municipal Bureaux of Education to introduce physical culture courses in the normal schools. The standard of the curriculum will be announced at an early date.

Peiping, Tainan, Taichung, Hankow, Changsha, Nanking, Hangchow, Shanghai, Canton, Nanning, and Kuellin were designated as experimental centres for the enforcement of courses in Chinese boxing, the Provincial and Municipal education authorities to direct the schools to carry out the experiment.

Provisional regulations governing the establishment of public recreation grounds were adopted and will be submitted to the Ministry for enforcement.

The establishment of recreation grounds for children and the promotion of physical education among the masses with the assistance of the police and the military were also discussed.

Young Frisco Invading Japan

QUEST BY ORIENT CHAMPION

Young Frisco, welterweight champion of the Orient and Young Tarley, contender for feather-weight honours, with their manager, Vicente Castro sailed from Manila last week for a series of two fights each in Zamboanga preparatory to an invasion of Japan where Frisco will meet Tony Gora and Tarley takes on Young Tommy's conqueror.

From Japan Castro and his ambitious fighters will proceed to Australia. And if their invasion proves successful they will continue on to the United States, according to manager Vic Castro. The departure of Young Frisco and Young Tarley will be sadly missed by local fans as both these boys have made a name for themselves hereabouts. Frisco, it should be remembered, stepped into the limelight when he decisively whipped Young Ignacio Fernandez to annex the welter crown late last year. He successfully defended his title by knocking out Fighting Nelson and Leo Bruno in succession. Frisco is only 18 years old and great things are ahead for him.

Tarley is the logical contender for the feather title. Scores of fight fans believe this boy is the uncrowned king in the feather-weight division. Among Tarley's victims have been Ventura Marquez, Rush Biny whom he kayoed in 3 rounds, Joe Masquindo, Joe Parasio and several other top notchers.

WYATT'S DECLARATION PROBABLY COURTESY GESTURE: TEST MATCH PETERS OUT

SURPRISING BATTING BY SUTCLIFFE AND WALTERS IN ENGLAND'S SECOND INNINGS

THE Australians proved themselves to be true fighters at Manchester yesterday, and the manner in which they averted defeat was very gallant.

FOR the last two wickets to add 68 to the overnight score on a wicket which had already yielded over 1,000 runs in three days was something worthy of the best traditions of Australian cricket, especially when one takes into account the fact that one of these batsmen should have been in hospital.

It is slowly becoming an established practice for sick or injured Test cricketers to save their side.

CHIPPERSFIELD'S performance yesterday when he batted under distressing circumstances and for all intents and purposes against doctor's orders, was reminiscent of Paynter's effort in Australia during the last visit, when he left a sick bed in hospital to bat for England, and pull the game round.

THE English attack did not cover itself in glory yesterday morning. In fact the figures of our fast bowlers make very melancholy reading. Clark sent down 40 overs to concede 100 runs for one wicket, and Allen bowled 186 balls to concede 113 runs without obtaining a victim.

VERITY alone returned worthy figures, but he could make no impression yesterday morning, his success coming the day before.

THE cables complain of the English fielding, which was apparently very ragged at times. Hendren and Hammond are singled out as chief offenders, although this probably applies to the earlier part of the Australian first innings, and not to the initial stages of the last day's play.

ON the other hand Hopwood appears to have lost a wonderful chance of making Australia follow-on, by wild throwing-in. Leslie Ames did not appear to have a very happy time behind the stumps. Forty three extras need a lot of explaining away, even if Allen was consistently bowling wides and no-balls.

WYATT'S second innings declaration has been described, in a critical way, as "surprising", although it seems reasonable to suppose that it was a courtesy declaration to allow the sick Australian players to escape fielding in the hot sun. Once sufficient number of runs had been scored to make the game safe, there was really no reason why Wyatt should not send the Aussies in to bat.

THE "surprising" thing about England's second innings was was not so much its declaration, as the painfully slow methods adopted by Sutcliffe and Walters. One would have expected them to have a "dip and a splash," for apparently the wicket proved fairly harmless, and there was certainly nothing to lose by a bit of enterprise.

IT would not have made any difference to the result. Once Australia had saved the following, on a draw was inevitable. But deliberately to drag the game out by wearisome "battling" tactics must have made the crowd wonder whether there wasn't some truth in the suggested decadence of the game.

QUITE apart from conjectures and theories, figures tell us that all Old Trafford Test records were broken. Both sides laid low the existing record for the highest aggregate in an innings. England with 627 for 9 declared, and Australia with 491. In addition there was a new aggregate for the whole match. The previous best was 1,073 in 1896. Thirty seven wickets fell during that match. But in the one just concluded 1,307 (notice the same figures appear) runs were scored for the loss of 20 wickets.

Lawn Bowls Championship

EXCITING ENCOUNTER ENDS IN DEFEAT OF GITTINS

An exceedingly fine game in the open singles championship of the lawn bowls competition was played on the Indian R.C. Green yesterday when A. Chapman of the Yacht Club beat H. Gittins of the Kowloon C. C. by 22 shots to 17.

The game was very close. On the sixth end the score stood at 5 to 5 in Chapman's favour, while on the 9th end the score was 7 all round again 5 all at the 11th end.

From the 11th to the 17th end Gittins was leading 16 shots to 8 but Chapman playing inspired bowls, levelled the score at 16 all on the 22nd end. On the 24th end the score was again level at 17 all. On the 25th end Gittins was lying one shot ahead having the second end while Chapman had two back woods.

With his last wood, Chapman delighted the crowd by trailing the jack to the ditch with a beautiful shot to register three and gain the lead by 20 shots to 17. On the 26th end he scored a two to win the match by 22 shots to 17 and thus qualified for the third round.

Other eliminations from the singles championship were E. W. Bradbury and L. E. Fawcett.

Bradbury met his defeat at the hands of G. O. Moss who won by 22 shots to 13 in a match which went to 21 hands.

L. Luck by getting three shots in the last end of his match with Xavier obtained his victory by a narrow margin as up to that point the men had kept closely together.

T. F. Staines of the Talko R.C. was to have met E. de Sousa of the Club de Recrolo this afternoon, but the latter has scratched, Staines thus entering the third round.

Playing on the Kowloon Docks Recreation Club green, J. Watson defeated J. Smith in the Singles Championship by 22 to 10. Twenty-eight hands were played.

Playing on the Club de Recrolo green, F. J. Jones and A. W. Grimmett beat G. Perkins and E. J. Post in the Pairs championship by 10-10.

BASEBALL STARS ON VIEW

WONDERFUL INTER LEAGUE GAME

AMERICANS BEAT NATIONALS

New York, July 10.

The only Major baseball match arranged for to-day was the glamorous all-star match on the Polo Grounds between the pick of the American and National Leagues.

The greatest players of the National League were pitted against the American League stars, captained by Bill Terry and Joe Cronin respectively.

The American Leaguers won a brilliant match by nine runs to seven.

The game was preceded by the unveiling of a memorial to the late J. J. McGraw, last year's pilot of the National League All-Star team.

52,000 DELIRIOUS FANS.

To-day's match opened before 52,000 delirious fans, who were agog with an enthusiasm comparable to the World Series.

The two famous left hand pitchers, Vernon Gomez of the New York Yankees and Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants opened the tussle between two magnificent teams, representing possibly the greatest array of players ever together on one field.

BOWLS CHAMPIONSHIP WALK-OVER.

T. FERGUSON GIVEN GAME BY A. JONES.

The Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association announced this morning that A. Jones had conceded a walk-over to T. Ferguson in the singles championship.

The postponed match between E. W. Simmons and A. S. Gomes will be played at the Kowloon Bowling Green Club to-morrow (Thursday).

Frankie Frisch homered for the Nationals in the first innings after Babe Ruth, Gehrig and Fox had been struck out in succession.

Scoring two, six and one runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings respectively, the Americans indulged in a batting spree, slugging Warneke, Mungo, J. Dean and Frank House mercilessly after Hubbell had fanned six players in the first two innings in thrilling style.

NATIONALS' 4-RUN LEAD.

Frisch and Joe Medwick homered for the Nationals, who led Hubbell at the end of the third inning. Ruffing, Harder, and Y. Gomez pitched for the Americans.

The American Leaguers scored their nine runs from 14 hits, and committed one error, while the Nationals scored seven runs from eight hits and were guilty of one error.—Reuter.

AUSTRALIA WIN KEEN DUEL TO AVOID FOLLOW-ON

LAST THREE BATSMEN SAVE THE DAY

THIRD TEST MATCH ENDS IN A DREARY DRAW

London, July 10. In the short period of play before lunch, Walters and Sutcliffe opened England's second innings. They gathered 21 runs, keeping their wickets intact. The batting was at its slowest during this period. Walters had then scored 12 and Sutcliffe eight.

England declared at the tea interval with 123 runs on the board, without the loss of a wicket. C. F. Walters contributed 60 and H. W. Sutcliffe 60. Wyatt's declaration at 4.15 p.m. was surprising as the batsmen did not go for the runs, and were not taking any risks, taking altogether 140 minutes to score 123 runs.

Walters reached the boundary on three occasions in scoring his 60, and Sutcliffe scored at a little faster rate, hitting nine boundaries and one six in his 60.

The Australians were left with a couple of hours' batting.

CHIPPERFIELD MAGNIFICENT.

Chipperfield was the first to go, being caught by Walters off Verity for 28. In view of his indisposition, his was a magnificent display, when Australia were fighting to save the follow-on. He scored seven runs off Hammond's first over yesterday, and was altogether at the wickets for a hundred minutes, 44-28-0.

The excitement was intense when Wall joined O'Reilly. Facing Allen, Wall glanced the bowler to the leg boundary, and then only six runs more were required to save the follow-on.

O'Reilly then edged Verity to third man for two, and then lashed out at the same bowler, hitting the ball through the leg trap to the boundary to save the follow-on.

WALL RUN OUT.

When O'Reilly had scored 30, he lost Wall, who was run out by Keston, holding at deep square leg. Wall's contribution was 18, and the innings was thus brought to a close at 401 runs, of which 43 were extras.

Several catches were missed in the field, the principle culprit being Hammond and Hendon. Hopwood too was guilty of a mistake when he sent in a bad return, which should have had O'Reilly run out before the follow-on was saved.

Verity was the most successful bowler tried, taking four wickets at a cost of 78 runs. Hammond took three for 111 runs. Clark took one wicket for 100 runs, and two were run out victims.

ACTION IN THE INTERPORT TENNIS TRIALS

Two doubles and singles match were played off on the S.L.T.A. courts last week for the Interport trials. Carson and Benavitch are shown above in action in their match against Knox and Duff, while inset is Yui, who met Guy Cheng in the Singles.

INTERNATIONAL POLO.

English Team Beats American Visitors.

Ranelagh, July 10. England, represented by the Knaves, defeated the American Aurora team, in a hard-fought polo match for the King's Coronation Cup to-day, by six goals to three.

Captain Roark gave a brilliant display and his three goals materially assisted the English team to victory. The English team was Capt. Pilkington, Capt. Roark, Capt. Prior, Palmer and Major Harrison. The Americans were Messrs. Talbot, Boescke, Knox and Post.—Reuter.

The matches between the Club de Recreo and the I.R.C., and between the U.S.R.C. and the Chinese Recreation Club "C" were cancelled on account of rain.

C.R.C. NOW VIRTUAL CHAMPIONS

League Tennis Yesterday

The Chinese Recreation Club doubled their opponents total of three points to run out easy winners of this senior division tennis league meeting yesterday. Scores:

H.K.C.C. v. C.R.C. "B"

By the odd point-in-nine the Hong Kong Cricket Club tennis team managed to wrest the honours from the "B" string of the Chinese Recreation Club in their "A" division meeting yesterday. Result: H.K.C.C. 5 points, C.R.C. "B" 4 points.

R. H. Wild and G. W. Sewell (H.K.C.C.) lost to Y. F. Tam and N. C. Ng 3-6, beat T. L. Lu and Y. K. Fung 6-2, beat T. N. Leung and K. M. Wong 6-1.

T. A. Pearce and E. Bathurst lost to Tam and Ng 2-6, beat Lu and Fung 6-2, lost to Leung and Wong 4-6.

P. H. Secones and O. E. C. Marton beat Tam and Ng 6-0, lost to Lu and Fung 3-6, beat Leung and Wong 6-2. Result: H.K.C.C. 5 points, C.R.C. "B" 4 points.

K.C.C. v. Craigengower C.C.

Playing on their own courts the K.C.C. defeated Craigengower by seven sets to two. Scores: E. C. Fincher and E. F. Fincher (K.C.C.) defeated J. Leonard and Y. Hochmann, 6-1; beat R. Chao and A. V. Gosano, 6-4; beat Y. F. Tsui and G. Lai, 6-1.

A. E. P. Guest and S. A. Gray (K.C.C.) drew with Leonard and Hochmann, 6-6; beat Chao and Gosano, 6-3; beat Tsui and Lai, 6-3.

W. Hyde and J. Rodger (K.C.C.) lost to Leonard and Hochmann, 6-1; beat Chao and Gosano, 6-2; drew with Tsui and Lai, 6-6.

Sports Programme For The Melbourne Centenary

WORLD'S LEADING CELEBRITIES TO FOREGATHER NEXT WINTER

An elaborate programme has been drafted by the Melbourne Centenary Committee for the celebrations which are to be held in Australia over a period of six months, commencing on October 18 next, and Mr. Norman E. Brookes, the well-known Lawn Tennis player of pre-war days and chairman of the Sports Sub-Committee, in an interview in Hongkong yesterday, outlined the ambitious plans of the Melbourne authorities for the staging of the exhibitions.

What will be the most impressive ceremony of the Celebrations will be the dedication of the Shrine to Fallen Soldiers. The ceremony will be performed by H.R.H. Prince Henry, who is to attend on behalf of His Majesty the King, on Armistice Day, November 11.

The major part of the programme for the celebrations will be composed of sporting events and invitations have been issued to leading sportsmen all over the world.

Racing will form an important part of the activities and as an added inducement to owners to enter, their candidacies for the meeting have been increased by nearly 100 per cent. The value of the Melbourne Cup, Australia's biggest race, will be $12,500, which is the largest prize ever offered for the event. The Victorian Derby will be worth $10,000.

The Lawn Tennis championships will commence on January 12 and it is confidently expected that all the leading players of the world will take part. Fred Perry, the Wimbledon Champion, will represent England together with G. P. Hughes. Other noted visitors for the tennis championships will be Miss Dorothy Round, Miss N. M. Lyle, Miss E. M. Dearman (Great Britain), two leading American players, G. V. Kirby and Malcolm South Africa, G. de Staufel (Italy), G. von Cossow (Germany), E. G. Maier (Spain) and R. B. Menzel (Czechoslovakia).

GOLF TOURNAMENTS.

A prize of $3,000 is being offered for the Open Golf championship, this being the biggest ever offered. For the amateurs a gold cup is to be presented to the winner. There will be no other tournaments organised by clubs in Victoria and in the other States as well. A special invitation has been sent by Mr. Brookes to W. Lawson Little, the American who won Wallace in the Australasian Amateur Open Championship recently.

A Centenary Thousand Mile bicycle race is being organised for a prize of $1,000. The event will take place in Victoria and will occupy the best part of a week.

There is also to be a special light car race of 2,500 miles to be held in Central Park in the City itself.

Teams from all the different Australian States and also from New Zealand are to participate in the polo tournament.

What Mr. Brookes described as one of the most interesting sporting events will be the Inter-Imperial Public School boys' Athletic meeting. Teams are being sent from Canada and New Zealand to compete against the best school boy teams from the various States of Australia.

BILLIARDS AND CHESS.

For the first time in the history of the country Australia will organise the Empire Professional Billiards Championship. Great Britain, who has hitherto conducted the championship, have agreed to let Australia run the tournament this year when it is hoped to have Walter Lindrum, Clark McConachy and Joe Davies competing.

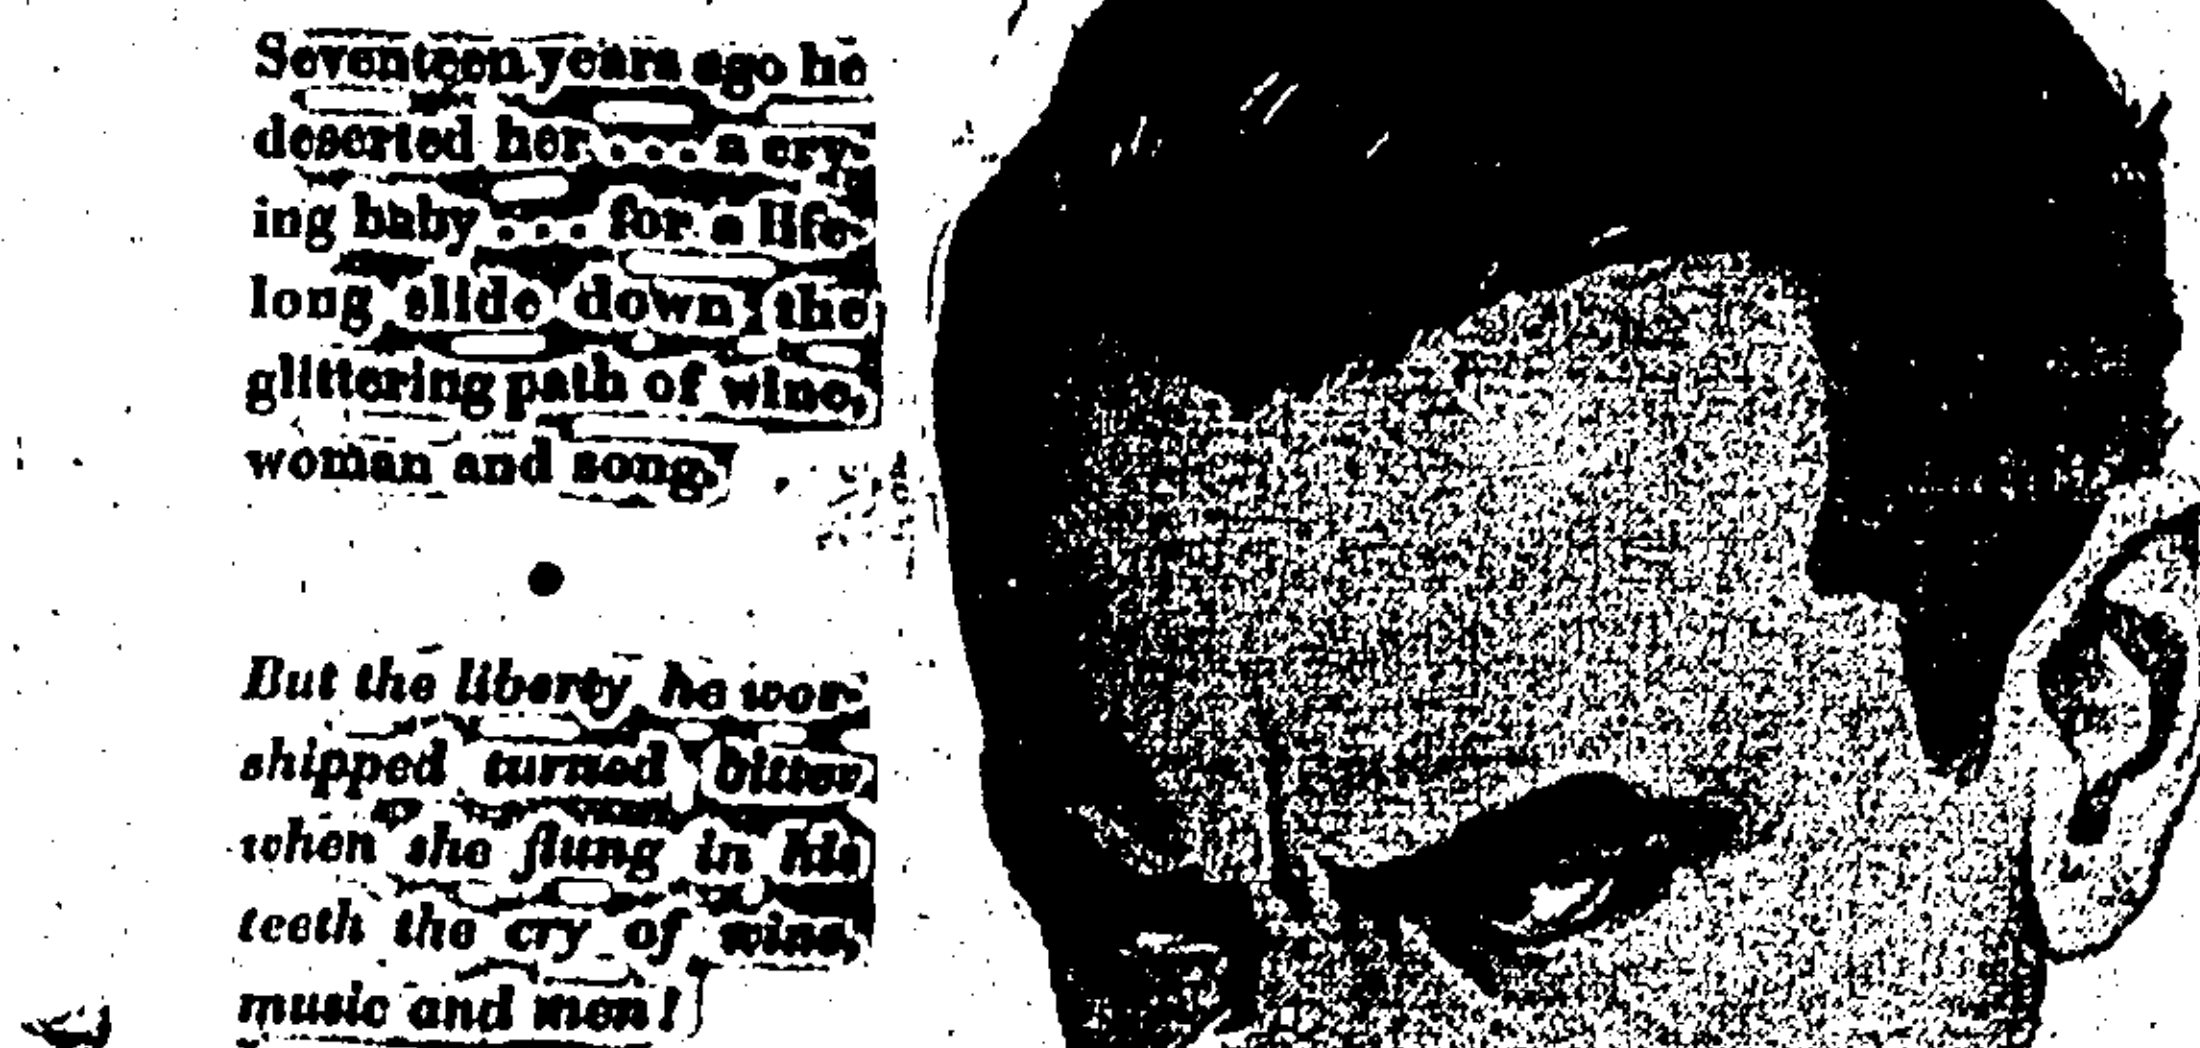

A women's sports meeting is to be held on the Melbourne Cricket Club ground, where 3,000 competitors are expected to parade.

A hike from Sydney to Melbourne is being organised while carriers will race between these two cities, bearing messages to and from well-known personages.

It is expected that Dr. A. A. Alekhine, the world's chess champion, will take part in the chess congress.

Mr. Brookes, who is accompanied by his wife and two daughters, will be leaving for the north by President Coolidge on Saturday. On Monday Mr. Brookes had some golf at Shek O and to-day he will be given a game of tennis. Whilst in Manila he had a very enjoyable game with Arragon.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

Fashion exclusiveness is a sign of originality and expensiveness, but not necessarily of good taste, says Sally Ellers, Fox Film player famed for her sartorial chic. She is one of the few cinema stars who doesn't find it necessary to wear "exclusive Models" in order to look and feel modish. Although 20 costumes were designed for her latest role in "3 On A Honey-moon", now at the King's Theatre, she insisted on having a variation of a white yachting frock worn by Claire Trevor in "Hold That Girl" to ease Royer's work in creating her wardrobe. The Fox film stylist appreciatively re-created the frock in a bright blue, varying it also by edging the white silk taffeta sailor collar with a fringe of naval signal flags in red-white-and-blue, giving it a patriotic as well as nautical flair. "The dress suited me personally, and it suited the occasion perfectly," she explained. "I know of no better criterion of fashion taste."

"I Loved A Woman"
Two of the truly great dramatic artists of the time are for the first time brought together as screen lovers in "I Loved A Woman," the first National picture which opens tomorrow at the Alhambra Theatre. They are Edward G. Robinson and Kay Francis, each of whom has been starred separately in many pictures—in all of which they have given unforgettable characterizations. With Genevieve Tobin, they play unique parts in the amazing love triangle of "I Loved A Woman." Miss Tobin is cast as the vindictive wife of the hero—content to wait a lifetime to avenge her wrongs. As the rising operatic star, Miss Francis fires Robinson, as a wealthy young meat packer with her own ambition to gain power. Both in their own ways are utterly ruthless in battling for world conquest. Strangely enough, Robinson is later inspired by hatred for his inamorata instead of love—when he finds he himself is but one of her many lovers. Outside of the romance the story reveals the dominating forces in the growth of the meat packing industry in the last forty years. There is a notable cast in addition to the principals which include J. Farrell MacDonald, Henry Kolker, Robert McKim, and Ned Hardy.

The screen play by Charles Kenyon and Sidney Sutherland is based on the story "Red Meat" by David Karsner, author of "Silver Dollar."

"Whistling in the Dark"
After eleven months on Broadway, Ernest Truex, famous comedian in demonstrating the way to plan a "perfect crime" on the screen. This picture, in which one of America's greatest comedians re-enacts one of his greatest stage hits, is the mystery comedy, "Whistling in the Dark," which opens tomorrow at the Queen's Theatre.

Two celebrated authors, Laurence Gross and Edward Childs Carpenter, conceived this screening satire, which pokes laughs at crook melodrama. Their effort was lauded by the New York critics, who thought it the best laugh of the year. The authors turned Truex into an author for the story—a boastful writer of best-selling mystery stories, who brags to a hand of crooks that he can plan a perfect crime. The crooks then hold Truex and his fiancée, Una Merkel, prisoner until he makes good his boast—with death for both as the penalty of failure. Compelled to go along with it, Truex conceives a lethal plan which depends on a tube of poisoned toothpaste to be used on a man on board a train several hours away. Then, still a prisoner, he seeks a way of warning his victim. The skilful working out of the scheme by the authors was said to be one of the most thrilling and humorous bits of playwriting in the history of the screen.

Ernest Truex and Una Merkel head a cast which includes Edward Arnold, John Millan, Charles Gordon and Johnny Hines. So fast is the story that the entire action takes place between 6 o'clock at night and 6 in the morning.

"Whistling in the Dark" was directed by Elliott Nugent, who co-directed "The Mouthpiece" and "Life Begins." Nugent was widely known as a stage comedian and playwright before coming to Hollywood.

"Long Lost Father"
The screen turns to an interesting comedy-drama picturization of a prodigal parent in "Long Lost Father," RKO-Radio Picture, starring John Barrymore, in the King's Theatre's new attraction on Thursday with Helen Chandler and John Barrymore. G. B. Stern, popular author, wrote "Long Lost Father." The story concerns the activities of the suave Carl Bellairs, who attempts to resume his parental duties to a grown daughter, after not seeing her for twenty years. When he does meet Lindsey Lane, his daughter, he only learns that she hates him more than any other man on earth, for deserting her and her mother, when she was an infant. The "Long Lost Father" now has some unusual experiences when he starts to impress the daughter with his parental love. "Long Lost Father" was directed by Ernest B. Schoedsack. Others in the cast are Alan Mowbray, E. E. Oliver, Reginald Shand, Natanael Moorhead and Ferdinand Gottschalk.

"Laughing Boy"
The romance of glamour of Indian life in America has been filmed with striking realism for the first time in "Laughing Boy," Navajo drama starring Ramon Novarro with Lupe Velez as the fiery feminine lead. The picture is now at the Queen's. Previous Indian stories have been concerned with the tribesmen in action as participants in raids, battles, and other white and redmen struggles. Now the Indian is presented as a definite personality! His hope, fears and most intimate feelings are portrayed in this picture based on the famous Pulitzer Prize winning story by Oliver La Farge, Ramon Novarro "reverses" the light and exuberant type of role in which he has often scored and even surpasses his past screen efforts in a restrained portrayal as a young Navajo Indian. The sparkling vigour of Lupe Velez was never more vividly presented than as "Slim Girl," the Indian girl who knows love in the civilized towns, but still craves the primitive men of her race. More than a thousand Navajos were used in action filmed on the actual locale of the story on the reservation near Cameron, Arizona with backgrounds of buttes and vast desert canyons adding to the impressive realism. Minor roles of Navajos are capably played by Ruth Channing and Ferdinand Munier, with considerable "punch" put into the "heavy" role by William Davidson.

"Son of a Sailor"
It takes two Browns to tell the story of "Son of a Sailor," a First National comedy hit which is at the Alhambra Theatre. One is Joe E. Brown, the star. The other is Johnny Mack Brown. They're not related, either in life or on the screen. But in the re-cross so many times that it takes half a dozen admirals and almost the entire Pacific fleet to get them unscathed. Joe E. Brown and Johnny Mack Brown are pals on the same airplane carrier and fall in love with the same girl before the picture has run its merry course. But all that Joe the hero wins is glory with the romantic honours going to Johnny Mack Brown at the final fadeout. Both Browns have distinguished themselves in kindred sports. Joe E. Brown has a reputation as a crack baseball player and still takes a professional interest in the game. Johnny Mack Brown was a first-line football star before he entered pictures. "Son of a Sailor" is said to be Joe E. Brown's most hilarious comedy. It is a tale of a romantic sailor's adventures filmed in the main aboard the U.S.S. Saratoga of the Pacific Fleet, with over 1,000 real gobs taking part. Besides the two Browns, the cast includes Joan Muir, Frank McHugh, Thelma Todd, Sheila Torry, George Blackwood, Merna Kennedy and Kenneth Thomson. Lloyd Bacon directed.

Food Shortage In Rhine Region.

Berlin, July 10.

Owing to the drought, "hunger stones," which have been submerged for many decades, have reappeared in the Rhine, near Kaub.

Traditionally, precursors of famine, the phenomenon has intensified the public anxiety caused by soaring food prices. Margarine has recently risen enormously in price, and purchases of potatoes, the staple food of the North German working class, have been limited to two pounds daily.

Hundreds of tons of potatoes, the duty on which was yesterday reduced by two thirds, are being rushed into the affected districts from Holland and Belgium; but

HEALTH CAMPAIGN.

INTERESTING LECTURE AT THE CHINESE Y.M.C.A.

An interesting lecture entitled "Food and Health" was delivered by Dr. F. J. Teoung, Chairman of the Health Campaign, at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. yesterday evening.

Dr. Teoung, at the outset, said that health and disease were controlled by six important factors—sunlight, air, water, sleep, exercise and food. Of all these, he thought, that food was the most neglected.

The speaker said many people ate too much and yet starved as in the case of obese people, while others ate too little and became undernourished. In other words, it was not how much we ate but what we ate that counted.

Dr. Teoung then gave a description of the general classification of food, and stressed the importance of the vitamins in our daily diet. He also said that the average person to-day drank too little water, which was so essential for our body.

the public anticipate the coming winter gloomily.

The German harvest is expected to be 29 per cent. below that of 1933.

Apart from the restriction of imports, Germany's lack of foreign exchange reserves makes it most difficult for her to purchase food-stuffs from abroad.

Dr. Schmidt, Minister of Economics, has been endowed with dictatorial powers to deal with the food situation.

Food rationing, as carried out during the Great War, is widely predicted, though the authorities positively deny the possibility. Meanwhile, many grocers' shops have been closed for profiteering.—Our Own Correspondent.

DEATH OF COOLIE

ALLEGED ALTERATIONS IN INSTALLATION

"I found the installation had been altered and added to; and that instead of 10 temporary lights connected, there were over 50; and that the contractor had in no way conformed with our requirements," said Mr. G. G. Stopani-Thomson, of the Hongkong Electric Company, when giving evidence at the inquiry into the death of Yip Siu-wan, a coolie, aged 35, who died from electric shock at the Aberdeen Reservoir on June 4.

The inquiry was conducted by Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon, the jury consisting of Messrs. J. C. Taylor (foreman), Li Hong-sing and Wong Sik-wai.

Dr. L. D. Pringle, medical officer in charge of the mortuary, who conducted a post mortem examination of the body stated that his findings were on the whole indefinite, but they were consistent with death caused by an electric shock.

Mr. Austin Spary, of the Electrical Department of the P.W.D., testified that at 8.30 a.m. on June 5, he received information from the officer in charge of the Aberdeen Police Station that a coolie employed by the contractor had been electrocuted on June 4, whilst working in the Lower Aberdeen Reservoir. Witness visited the reservoir at 11.30 a.m. on the same day and carried out some tests.

Tests Unsatisfactory.
The tests, he said, showed that the wires were very bad from the electrical point of view. Forty temporary lights fitted on bamboo poles had been used for illumination for excavation work during the night. The stay wire supporting the poles was also used to prevent the lamps from swinging in the wind, the lamp being secured by a piece of wire. The binding wire was in contact with the live metal in the lamp. The lamp in use was not of the right type. With this lamp there was always an element of danger. Moreover, witness said, the wire should never have been tied round the lamp.

Evidence of application for the installation of a motor at the reservoir was given by Mr. G. G. Stopani-Thomson, of the Hongkong Electric Company. He stated that an application was received by the head office on March 12, 1934, in the name of the Union Construction Company for a motor at the Upper Pumping Station at the Aberdeen Reservoir. The application was for a motor for 12 lights and two wall sockets, the latter apparently to be used for temporary lights. This installation was tested on March 13, and as it satisfied the Company's requirements, the motor was fixed on March 14.

After the accident, witness examined the installation and found that the installation had been altered and added to. Instead of 10 temporary lights connected there were over 50, and the contractor had in no way conformed with the requirements of the Company.

Witness further stated that the contractor was allowed to attach five lights to each wall socket, but he had removed the sockets together with the switches controlling them, and substituted a complete temporary installation. This installation was erected without notification to the Electric Company.

Materials Specified.

"I would like to point out that the contractor, when applying for an installation, has to sign a form which was introduced a few years ago," said witness. "This form is printed in English and Chinese, specifying the type of wires, the kind of lamp and other things that were to be used."

Foreman of the Jury: In other words, that it should be made safe?

Witness: Certainly. The type of lamp used was wrong, the type of wire used was wrong, and the type of control used was wrong. In several places there were bare patches of wire with the copper exposed and the switch used to control the installation was connected with the wrong side of our supply." The result was that the whole of the temporary installation had a potential of 200 volts above earth.

Coroner: Was that sufficient to cause a severe shock?

Witness: It would cause death to an unfit person.

You are speaking as an expert?

—I am a chartered electrical engineer.

In answer to another question, witness said the temporary installation had a potential of 200 volts above earth whether the lights were in use or not.

Witness concluded by saying that he ordered the current to be switched off at once.

Contract With Government.

Yip Ching-ping, a partner in the Union Construction Company, said his firm was under contract with the Government for the removal of silt from the old Aberdeen Reservoir. He was the person in charge of the work.

Work was done only in the day time when operations commenced, but later the work became more urgent and the Company decided to carry on at night. In consequence, an application was made to the Hongkong Electric Company, through an electrical contractor, for lights to replace kerosene lamps which had hitherto been used. The installation was made by a firm called Tso Ping-kee. The total number of lights used was 40.

The inquiry was adjourned.

ROTTERDAM "REVOLT"

POLICE FIRED ON IN CROOSWYK

BLOCKADE OF DISTRICT

Rotterdam, July 11.—The spirit of revolt which flared up in Amsterdam as a result of the cuts in unemployment grants, has now developed in Rotterdam.

Violent scenes were witnessed in working-class districts of the city to-night, notably in one sector of the town.

Residents of the Crooswyk quarter opened fire on the police from their windows to-night and the police returned the fire.

An old woman of seventy was among those hit.

Strong measures have been taken by the authorities as a result of the outbreak. There are now large forces of mounted police, military and gendarmes in the district, whose inhabitants have been forbidden to leave their houses.

BLOCKADE.

The delivery of food, mail or newspapers to the district has also been forbidden.

Searchlights are playing along the streets.

A woman barrister, the secretary of the Independent Socialist Party has been arrested for sedition. All the disturbances arose out of the cuts in the dole. —Reuter.

THE STAVISKY SCANDAL

COMMISSION SENDS IN REPORT

(Special to "Telegraph")

Paris, July 11.—After sittings lasting for nearly six months, the Stavisky Commission, which has been investigating the Bayonne frauds, has concluded its labours and submitted its Report.

The findings of the Commission exonerate all members of Parliament from connection with the scandal with the exception of the Deputy, M. Bonnamy, who has already been sentenced to imprisonment, and Senator Jean Odier. —Reuter Special.

GANDHI TO FAST SEVEN DAYS

PENANCE FOR ATTACK ON LAL NATH

(Special to "Telegraph")

Karachi, July 10.—Gandhi has decided to begin a seven-day fast commencing from August 7 next.

The Mahatma's action is contemplated as a penance for the assault on the Pandit Lal Nath, the Orthodox Hindu leader whom the Reformists came into conflict during a public meeting at Ajmer. —Reuter Special.

BANK DIVIDEND

The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation notify that an interim dividend of 2 1/2 per cent, subject to deduction of Income Tax, has been declared for the half year ending 30th June, 1934, at the rate of 1/64 per dollar.

LITHUANIAN AMNESTY

Valdemaras Remains In Prison

Kovno, July 10.—President Smetona to-day granted an amnesty to sixty-eight young officers who participated in the attempt at a coup d'etat on June 7. The ringleader of the affair, M. Valdemaras, remains in prison. —Reuter.

BOLIVIANS RETREAT

GREAT OFFENSIVE IN GRAN CHACO

FATE OR WAR IN BALANCE?

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1894. Received July 11, 10.01 a.m.)

Buenos Aires, July 10.—Severe fighting is proceeding in the Gran Chaco. The Asuncion claim of important successes near Fort Ballivan is confirmed by independent sources, but the offensive now appears to have worn itself out and come to a halt.

Forty thousand Paraguayan troops were thrown into the attack on the outer fortifications of the Bolivian fort and they established a new line after an advance of one kilometre, during which they overwhelmed the third line of the Bolivian trenches in front of Fort Ballivan.

A fierce battle is still proceeding, the outcome of which it is possible will decide the fortune of the war.

It appears that the Paraguayans suffered very heavy losses in gaining ground, and it is reported that they have halted their advance.

Bolivian despatches admit that their troops at Ballivan have retreated, but add that the battle is only just starting. —United Press.

LIES! LIES! LIES!

DR. GOEBBELS ON JUNE 30

ACID ATTACK ON FOREIGN PRESS

CAMPAIGN OF SLANDER

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1894. Received July 11, 11.04 a.m.)

Berlin, July 11.—A slashing attack on foreign reports of the dramatic events in Germany round about June 30 was delivered last night by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, the Minister of Propaganda.

The speech was broadcast throughout the Reich, and consisted largely of an acid attack on the Berlin correspondents of the foreign press generally, in greeting the events of June 30 with "a campaign of lies, in malice only comparable to the atrocity campaign incited against Germany during the world war."

He issued a warning that the Hitler Government would not tolerate in Germany correspondents using such methods.

"MISERABLY ORGANISED."

In contrast with the propaganda of the war, he went on, the campaign was "miserably organised," so much so that reports from Germany were self-contradictory and again.

He suggested that if the correspondents desired to overcome this, they should co-operate more closely.

HYSTERICAL SLANDER.

Dr. Goebbels specifically attacked a number of British and French and other newspapers and agencies and wireless broadcasting stations, declaring that the foreign press had had an opportunity to report German events objectively, whereas, in reality, "with the exception of several serious foreign newspapers which have not lost their calm deliberation and soberness of judgment, the rest of the international press has succumbed to a frenzy of malicious incitement and hysterical slander."

INDIGNANT PROTEST.

"I protest indignantly, disappointedly and emphatically against the campaign, and I declare that the German Government is no longer willing to tolerate foreign correspondents who thus incite peoples against each other, conjuring up an atmosphere in which any honourable and unprejudiced relations between nations are rendered impossible." —United Press.

CHINESE AIR STUDENT CRASHES

SERIOUSLY INJURED IN NEW YORK

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1894. Received July 11, 11.10 a.m.)

New York, July 11.—A Chinese flying student, learning the art of aviation in New York, was seriously injured when he crashed to-day.

The victim of the mishap was Fred Leong.

He went into a forced landing and it is reported that he is suffering from a broken ankle and injuries to his head. —United Press.

Huge Monoplanes For Britain

R. A. F. EXPANSION SCHEME

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1894. Received July 11, 11.10 a.m.)

London, July 11.—It is reported that the Cabinet is proposing to enter upon the programme of R.A.F. expansion almost immediately.

The political correspondent of the Daily Mail declares that the Government has agreed to the details of the Air Ministry's plans for the construction of six hundred new aeroplanes, new aerodromes and so on.

The Daily Mail adds that it understands an order has been placed for the immediate supply of a squadron of ten huge monoplane night-bombers, with a wingspan of over a hundred feet, modelled upon the long-range monoplane which won for Britain the long-distance nonstop record from England to South Africa. —United Press.

FOUR WOMEN ON THE JURY

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1894. Received July 11, 8.10 a.m.)

San Francisco, July 10.—After many challenges, the jury for the Hickman trial has been finally empanelled. It consists of eight men and four women. —Reuter.

BARTHOUSIMON AGREEMENT

IMPORTANT RESULTS OF LONDON TALKS

REVIVED HOPE FOR DISARMAMENT

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1894. Received July 11, 9.58 a.m.)

LONDON, JULY 11.

BEHIND THE USUAL CRYPTICALLY-WORDED OFFICIAL SUMMARY OF THE SIMON - BARTHOUS CONVERSATIONS THERE LIES AN AGREEMENT FOR CO-RELATION OF POLICY WHICH IS BELIEVED TO REPRESENT THE MOST IMPORTANT CONTRIBUTION TO THE STABILISATION OF THE EUROPEAN SITUATION SINCE THE LOCARNO PACT.

The possibility of important French concessions to Germany in the field of armaments, largely bridging the apparently unbridgeable gap between their viewpoints is now envisaged.

Plans have been formed for the conclusion of a Seven-Power Pact in Eastern Europe, to which Great Britain will not be expected to append her signature, but which will depend upon the readiness of Germany to enter into it.

BRITAIN'S BENEVOLENT NEUTRALITY

Authoritative information gleaned after M. Barthou's departure for Paris leaves little doubt that the Anglo-French conversations may be regarded as among the most important moves made since the war for the consolidation of European peace.

There is a new hope for a disarmament convention, without calling for additional commitments by Britain.

It is learned from the most reliable sources that the outstanding results of the talks are:

FRANCO-SOVIET SCHEME.

Britain has agreed to regard with benevolent neutrality the Franco-Soviet scheme for a Seven-Power Eastern European Pact of Mutual Assistance, including Germany.

France, on her part, has intimated her willingness and readiness to grant important arms concessions to Germany, legalising reasonable German rearmament, provided that Germany is prepared to join the proposed Eastern European Pact of Mutual Assistance.

ARMS PARLEY REVIVAL?

These two points are regarded as certain to impart the badly-needed fresh vitality to the dying Disarmament Conference, which is expected to resume its sittings in a much more healthy atmosphere, although obvious many technical points will remain to be cleared away. —United Press.

NO NEW PLEDGES.

London, July 11.—The communiques on the Anglo-French talks are as achromatic as usual and approaches to British official quarters have not revealed any more.

Though M. Barthou declares himself as quite happy at his reception in London, it seems that the British attitude towards French aspirations can be summed-up in the neat phrase employed by Le Journal "Inert and passive benevolence." Britain has given no new pledges.

LABOUR POLICY ON L.C.C.

Education Facilities Extended

London, July 10.—A programme of educational development involving a total capital expenditure of £511,400 was approved by the London County Council this afternoon.

The Council also made a grant of £50,000 to the Foundling Hospital Appeal Fund, thereby securing the purchase of the last portion of the site which will remain an open space in perpetuity in the heart of London. —British Wireless.

When Baby Is Unwell.

Young mothers are often worried to know what to do when baby is unwell, when he is feverish, and cross, cries most of the time, will not go to sleep, refuses to eat, is troubled with his teething.

In all such cases Baby's Own Tablets will be found a safe and reliable remedy, bringing prompt relief to the little one.

The tablets are readily crushed to powder and are therefore easily administered, and as they are pleasant in taste there is never any fuss about taking them.

Baby's Own Tablets quickly allay feverishness, banish constipation, indigestion, colic and wind, check diarrhoea, relieve croup and colds, expel worms, and by settling the stomach ease the pains of teething. There need be no misgivings about their use even for the youngest infant for they are the prescription of a physician who for many years made a study of children's ailments and are guaranteed to be perfectly harmless and entirely free from any opiate or narcotic.

To keep baby happy and healthy there is nothing better than an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. Obtainable at all chemists.

Thousands have enlarged pores and do not know it. Every enlarged pore is due to irritation. Unless you get rid of skin pore irritation, foreign matter collects, and the consequence is unsightly blackheads, pimples, blotches, yellow, darkened colour and coarse, rough skin. Creme Tokalon Skin Food, White Colour (non-greasy), now contains a marvelous new soft, creamy was, extracted from flowers, combined with predigested dairy cream and olive oil. It is tonic, astringent and nourishing—penetrates instantly, soothes irritated skin glands, tightens enlarged pores, dissolves blackheads so that they fall away, whitens and softens darkest, roughest skin. Keeps the driest skin fresh and delicately moist but not greasy. Equally adapted to take off the shine from an oily skin or sleek shiny nose.

Creme Tokalon Skin Food (White Colour) gives indescribable new skin beauty and freshness in 3 days—such as can be obtained in no other way. It should be used every morning. Many an attractive proposal of marriage has been inspired by a lovely soft white skin and beautiful complexion.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Designers Shed New Light on Home Decoration

LIGHTING FIXTURES MATCH PERIOD FURNITURE

By Mary Margaret McBride

New York—And now, if you please, we have period lights for our homes to go with our period chairs and chests. It's about time, too. Lighting fixtures have too long been a painful note in home decoration, for no more reason apparently than that housekeepers thought other details more important. The result has been some gruesome-looking objects in most houses and apartments that have stuck out from the walls like sore thumbs—sometimes right next door to old masters, too!

The odd thing about it is that persons of taste long ago realized that if you have a room in the Early American style, let's say, you don't put an Early English or a mission desk in it as a permanent feature. On the contrary, you try, within your pocketbook, of course, to keep all the decorative items in harmony. Except the lights!

Day of Brass Monstrosities Over But now the artist has been called into the picture and the results are really very nice. The skilled designer has gone right into the factory and firmly banished the brass and bronze monstrosities which were direct descendants of those hideous pipes and globes of gas-jet days.

The new lights are done in many forms and in every architectural or artistic period. Thus, for your early English room, you may get early English fixtures faithful in every detail to the period as well as others to match the early American, Jacobean, Georgian, Empire, Federal or Directoire decorative notes.

Some of these 1934 models use colour cleverly. An early American lantern for instance is scarlet inside, partly because the original from which it was copied was painted scarlet and partly because the scarlet note will brighten up your hall. Other simple and quite lovely fixtures come in Coriense green and Republic red, gold and white and shining chromium. The variety is great enough to permit of fitting any room with lights which harmonize with, and point up, the entire scheme.

Proper Light Eliminates Glare

Proper lighting is a science to which not nearly enough attention is paid anyway. The commonest mistake of the householder seems to be to confuse glare with light. Shining bulbs and insufficient shading or frosting mean eye strain for those who try to work or read by them. And then there is the important matter of devising a lighting that will flatter both home-folks and guests. A glare certainly will not, what with everybody blinking and winking and looking ghastly under its irritating influence.

Centre lights seem to be coming back as a result of the new artistic influence. Lurelle Guild, the designer, has turned out some ceiling fixtures that have the great asset of both direct and indirect lighting. That is, they have the usual visible bulbs and also have in the centre bowl hidden bulbs which reflect the light up towards the ceiling.

Avoid Over-use of Centre Light Even though you may like the design, don't keep your centre light on all the time. It's all right for company, but home evenings turn out better for everybody if you depend upon lamps and wall brackets. A lighting authority declares one wall bracket every fifteen feet is a good rule to follow, but the best way is to use your own judgment about this.

Lamps, luckily are following the general trend and becoming simpler and more classic with fewer meaningless dangles and trick shades. And no lamp should be so high, remember, that it shows a bright and unshaded bulb glaring out from under the shade!

CHAPTER XLVIII

The maples flew red banners against a sky of heavenly blue. The air was crisp and bracing here under the old trees with a boy of four spread-eagled in a sand pile and two or three white-capped workmen loitering among the shavings.

Two women came out of the house and stood on the porch. One was slight, with flyaway dark curls and an apricot flush on her cheek. The other had crisp red hair under her white felt hat. She was smiling.

"I think you've done wonders to the place," she said eagerly. "Who would have thought of making that old barn into a studio?"

"The school will be open next week," said the dark-haired one with animation. "I have two helpers already. Of course it's an experiment so we can't promise much in the way of money. We have three groups. The juniors, from 18 months to two and a half; and the runabouts who can go from that to four. (David is in that.) And then the seniors. They're the real kindergartners, of course—the average pre-school children. Why don't you come in?"

"Oh, I'd love to, Gypsy," cried Sue Gibson. "I wonder if I could! I don't know a thing about the work but I was wondering what on earth I'd do with myself this winter. Of course while Hunt and I were in Mexico I was busy—it was fascinating. I learned Spanish. I even took a course in archaeology, although half the time I didn't know what Professor de Moraes was talking about. But it was good practice."

"Well, talk it over with Hunt anyway," said Gypsy, encouraging. "You'll be in an apartment, so if you don't go in for golf or bridge or something you'll have time on your hands."

"Plenty of that," said Sue soberly. "Gypsy, he really is a pet—Davy, I mean. You don't know how I envy you!"

"He's sweet." The dark-haired young woman's eyes shone. "But do you know, if I could have been out here that first year instead of in an apartment everything would have been different. I used to think I would go crazy, cooped up there in the city, with nothing to look out at—nothing to do, really, although Davy's needs kept me busy enough. That's the trouble with the first years of marriage," she mused. "You're getting used to an entirely different kind of life—no one really prepares you for it. Somehow you have a feeling that it's just going to be a continuation of the parties and showers everyone has been giving for you. And then suddenly you're cook and chambermaid and nurse and you don't know what it's all about."

"You didn't seem to have any bumps the first year, though," Sue said, pulling her white gloves on. "You and Tom always got on beautifully."

"Didn't I, though?" Gypsy's eyes crinkled reminiscently. "Well, I was pretty silly and half-baked, I can tell you. I used to go to Lila's to a party and come home and be discontented for a week. Tom was sweet. He knew it was bad for me but he didn't say a word. Then when he was working hard, trying desperately to get a foothold in the office, I'd crab if he were kept late. I'd be horrid and suspicious and jealous. Don't be jealous, Sue," she interrupted herself to say. "It spoils everything. Half the time it's something manufactured out of your own head. If I'd had some work that interested me—or if I had been able to get away from the baby often, keep my brains dusted off, I never would have been like that. That's what we hope to do for the girls around here. They won't have to worry about their children four mornings a week. We're keeping the fee down so that almost anyone can afford it. And we're going to have lots of fun."

"How did you happen to find this place?" Sue wanted to know, leading the way to her little car, parked under the big sugar maple which was already shedding its autumn effulgence all over the driveway.

who frightened me out of my wits barged in there one night when the place was empty and upset the oil stove. He was—she shuddered over the words—"he was horribly burned and died. We had a little insurance but not much and we were just sick over it. Then the state went around buying up land for Whipple Beach (I guess you haven't heard of that; it's been done since you went to Mexico). Anyhow, it's a marvellous stretch of beach—belongs to the public. They made a bid for our place and it was wonderful, getting the money in one fell swoop. That was just about the time Tom had his promotion—a year ago—and we started out at once in pursuit of a house. Tom doesn't mind the commuting and he thought it would be grand to be near the family."

"Nice he gets on with them so well," Sue murmured. "Oh, Mums adores him. If he were her own son she couldn't be fonder. Well, we found this place. The house wasn't in bad shape. It's 100 years old, you know, but it had been remodelled about 20 years ago by some artist and his wife who had to go west. The barn was a big old ramshackle place but it had fine beams and a good foundation. We concentrated on the house first. Paint and plumbing and whatnot. Whipple Beach was our fairy godmother."

"It's charming," Sue glanced back at the white house, crouched in the shade of arching trees. The verandah was furnished with deep chairs and scattered tables.

"Then I had this brainstorm about the nursery school. It will be fun for me and maybe some day I'll make some money. Tom is as enthusiastic as I am. He spends weekends hammering and sandpapering. We've just about finished. Come around a week from Monday and I'll show you our student body. All in pink rompers."

"I will," Sue promised. She was leaning on the car door now and Sue reflected to herself that really she did not look a scrap older than on that gala day five years before when she had walked up the aisle of the little church in Blue Hills, Tom Weaver's bride. Her brown curls were as flyaway as ever and the apricot flush still lingered in her rounded cheeks. She was wearing her working costume to-day—dark blue slacks and a striped jersey shirt. She looked almost like a rosy boy, the kind of figure you see in posters advertising the Breton countryside. Only when she turned and swooped the overalled child by her side into her arms and buried her face in his sunburned neck you saw she was not a boy at all, but a woman, warm, eager, loving.

Sue sighed again. "If I had a child."

"You will," Gypsy prophesied. David struggled to be free and she set him squarely down upon his feet and he grinned at her engagingly.

"Doesn't like to be babied," Gypsy said inaudibly.

"I'm going to build a house myself," the boy boasted. "Better than the men."

"Of course you are," Gypsy surveyed him with pride. "Call me when you've finished. I want to see." The child strutted away, proud and zealous.

Sue lingered, her hand fumbling for the ignition key. "I declare I wish I hadn't promised to go to Elsie Wilbur's tea," she said. "I'd like to stop here all afternoon. We haven't talked things out. There are dozens of people I want to know about. By the way, what ever became of Lila Bliss? The last I heard of her she was cutting a great swathe abroad."

Gypsy shook her head. "Poor Lila! She felt miserable about being mixed up in that English divorce case. It wasn't in the least her fault."

"Well, maybe not," observed Sue. "You always had a soft spot for her. I must say I couldn't see her, ever."

"She was undisciplined—we all were," Gypsy defended. Sue burst out laughing. "You talk a grey beard, my dear. You must be all of 27."

"I've learned a lot," Gypsy told her soberly. "I've learned to keep quiet and smile when I feel like lying into a temper. I've had to learn lots for David's sake. That's one thing motherhood teaches you—self-control."

"Well, you're an angel and I love you. Look for me some day next week," Sue flung back as she started the car. The last glimpse she had of Gypsy was a dark blue figure silhouetted against the clear haze of the September sky, as she argued tempestuously with a carpenter. Was it possible, Sue thought, driving off, that she had ever been jealous of her friend? Ridiculous and yet true. She had suffered torments over it. Now Hunt was hers. Gypsy had been married five whole years. They were all getting staid and settled. No more flurries... no heart-breaks.

Marriage changes us all, Sue thought. Some for the worse (there was Lila!) and some for the better.

In the candlelight, with Clytie's second daughter, Annie, coming to and fro with hot food in the blue dishes, Gypsy told Tom about Sue's visit. Gypsy had changed her slacks and jersey for an organdie frock striped and plaided in pale green. Her lovely neck and shoulders were bare. The old dining room with its white panelled

AN ILLEGAL ADVERTISEMENT

WAH KIU YAT PO FINED

Wo Wai-man, editor of the Wah Kiu Yat Po, was fined $50 on a summons of having inserted an advertisement relating to venereal disease, in the paper on June 10, at the Central Magistracy this morning.

Mr. T. P. K. Kemble, for defendant, explained that the space had been sold by contract, and the advertiser had changed the form of the advertisement from time to time. Naturally advertisements were supervised, but in this case there was a lack of supervision. The words which appeared beneath the advertisement usually appeared in large letters all over the Colony, and were not unusual. Further his client was not the only offender. The same block had been handed round from paper to paper.

Mr. Kemble undertook that his client would not insert the advertisement again.

TWO MORE CASES OF DOG-BITES

VICTIMS SENT TO HOSPITAL

Two further cases of dog-bite are reported by the police to-day, and in both instances the victims have gone to hospital for treatment.

Tong Wah-wing, of 24 Front Row, Wanchai, reports that at 7.30 p.m. yesterday when he was passing a house in Wanchai he was bitten by a white chow. He has since been admitted to the Government Civil Hospital, and the dog has been sent to Kennedy Town.

A woman named Ho Tai-hing, of 21 Kai Tack Bund, reports having been bitten by a dog belonging to a Mr. Abbas. She has been admitted to Kowloon Hospital, and the dog has been sent to Maitaukok.

The Chinese woman who was admitted to Kowloon Hospital on Monday morning believed to be suffering from hydrophobia died at mid-day yesterday.

CONSTABLE AND A DOGGARDENER'S STORY IN COURT

"I am ready to pay a fine, but what I object to is the behaviour of the constable. He practically called the dog out," stated Mr. Y. P. Low, of No. 40 Robinson Road, when he appeared before Mr. Macfadyen this morning summoned for allowing his dog, an Alsatian pup, to be abroad without a muzzle.

An Indian constable said he saw the dog for six or seven minutes unmuzzled in Mosque Terrace. It was playing with a child.

CASES ADJUDICATED.

Summonses against E. J. R. Mitchell, of No. 9 Shek-O, for allowing a bull terrier and a fox terrier on the roadway at Big Wave Bay unmuzzled, and J. Walker, of the Hongkong Jockey Club stables, for allowing two spaniel dogs abroad unmuzzled on Shek-O bench on July 1, were adjourned for one week.

It was stated that Mr. Mitchell was indisposed.

THE VICTORIA
LEAGUELOCAL COMMITTEE FORMED

A local committee of the Victoria League in London has been formed, consisting of the Hon. Colonial Secretary (Chairman), the Vice-Chancellor, University of Hongkong, (Vice-Chairman), the Hon. Secretary for Chinese Affairs, the Director of Education, the Hon. Mr. S. W. Tse, O.B.E., LL.D., the Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, Miss Alice Kwok, the Inspector of English Schools, (Joint-Honorary Secretary), Mr. Tao Tsun-on, (Joint-Honorary Secretary).

The League, among its other activities, renders assistance to British subjects from any part of the world who go to England, more especially for purposes of education. The League is prepared to render assistance in the matter of finding quarters, advising on educational matters, as far as possible helping in regard to admission to the universities, giving facilities for visiting places of interest, and generally in bringing students into contact with English social life. The League has kindly consented to render such assistance to British subjects going to England from Hongkong.

Persons who may wish to avail themselves of the assistance of the League should apply to one of the Honorary Secretaries, with a view to obtaining a letter to the Secretary of the League in London.

MISHAP DURING JOY RIDESEQUEL IN POLICE COURT

A joy ride which resulted in an accident on Shaukiwan Hill, had a sequel before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when Henry Wong, a student, aged 18, was charged on two counts of having driven private car No. 293 without a driver's licence in Island Road on July 9, and also with having driven without the permission of the owner, Mr. M. T. Fung.

Yakob Khan, 25 years, was jointly charged with having driven the car without the permission of the owner.

Khan told the Court that he did not know to whom the car belonged. The first defendant charged him to drive it.

Traffic Inspector Nicol said the first defendant told him he would pay him $10 if he would drive the car for three hours.

Wong, in answer to the first charge, said he had only started the car. A man named Ip had given him permission to drive the car.

Inspector Nicol added that Wong drove the car from No. 7 Police Station to Shaukiwan. While coming down the hill, the car overturned, and it was damaged to the extent of $173.

Mr. Hamilton fixed hearing of the case for noon to-morrow, and fixed Wong's bail at $1,000, and Khan's at $50.

TWO GUNS AND REVOLVERHEAVY FINE FOR POSSESSION

The summons against Lau Yick-chau for possession of two shot guns and a revolver without a licence at No. 58 Kennedy Road, which was remanded from last Wednesday, came up before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning.

Defendant was fined $100 and the revolver confiscated.

Sub-Inspector A. V. Baker said that the two shot guns were of good quality, and they would probably be sold and the proceeds given the defendant.

Mr. R. C. H. Lim appeared for defendant, and pleaded guilty to a technical offence. He said defendant was a merchant, and his business took him out of the Colony to various parts of China on and off. That was the reason why he had not renewed the licence. Defendant had no intention of depriving the Government of its revenue.

Inspector Baker said the licence was last renewed in 1930. Defendant had been looked for for the last four years. The Government was minus $40.

Mr. Lim added that his client was willing to pay up the arrears. Mr. Baker said he had been instructed by the Inspector General of Police to cancel defendant's licence.

SHIP'S OFFICER CHARGED.

A. C. Kella, chief officer of the steamer Kwong Fook Cheung, was summoned for possession of an automatic pistol and 74 rounds of ammunition without a licence, on board the vessel on July 6.

Mr. Hamilton remarked that in defendant's position, he should have a revolver.

Defendant pleaded he was a newcomer, and did not know that a licence had to be obtained by ships officer.

Inspector Timson added that he had been instructed to ask for the confiscation of the gun.

Mr. Hamilton remanded the case for one week, remarking that he did not feel impelled to confiscate the gun under the circumstances.

OTHER CASES.

Lam Po-heung, residing at No. 184 Cheung Sha Wan Road, first floor, was fined $25 and also ordered to pay $10 as the licence fee for the current year, for possession of a revolver and a rifle without a valid licence on June 3.

Lo Shun-fan, of No. 55 Bonham Road, first floor, was charged with possession of a revolver without a licence, but the case was adjourned since the defendant was said to be away from the Colony. The revolver was confiscated.

CERTIFICATES NOT PASSPORTSNOMINAL FINES ON JAPANESE

Ichizo Yasuda (49) and Hanjiro Urakami (51) were fined $10 each by Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for having entered the Colony without valid passports.

Detective Sergeant Mottram said the second defendant was a resident of Hongkong until two months ago, and at that time possessed a certificate from the Japanese Consulate, which expired at the end of 1933. He went away to Formosa, and there engaged the first defendant whom he intended employing as a cook in his restaurant at Wanchai. Apparently when they got to Amoy, they heard of the passport regulations at Hongkong, and then applied for and got certificates from the Japanese Consulate, which were not accepted by the Hon. Inspector General of Police as passports. They entered the Colony on the Dell Maru on July 7.

The position as regards this question of certificates was, said Sergeant Mottram, that owing to there being so many Japanese in Hongkong on June 1 without passports, the Consul could not cope with the demand for passports, which had to be obtained from Japan. An arrangement was, therefore, made with the police whereby these certificates were issued only to Japanese residents in Hongkong on June 1, and any Japanese entering the Colony from outside had to have proper passports. Neither of the defendants was in the Colony on June 1.

Sergeant Mottram added that the prosecutions were being taken with a view to getting foreigners to understand the regulations. The police were only asking for a fine.

Mr. Hamilton accordingly imposed a nominal fine on defendants.

Nicotine? Not at all. That is tobacco tar — the dark brown, semi-solid, intensely irritant product of burning leaf. You see what it does to your fingers — think what it does to your throat! That's what causes the coughing and catarrh, the burning, the dried-up feeling. . . . The filter tip of a du Maurier traps tobacco tar. months' imprisonment last Monday for entering the Colony without a valid passport, and failing to register, being an alien, was again produced before Mr. Hamilton this morning, when the charges were withdrawn. She was discharged.

Defendant said she registered at the Japanese Consulate. Sergeant Mottram said her papers were found to be correct, and the case was accordingly withdrawn.

PEAK TRAMWAY EXTENSION

There is general agreement amongst regular patrons of the Peak tramway service with the view expressed by the Chairman of the operating company, at its recent annual meeting, that if permission can be secured and the necessary land acquired, the line should be extended down to Queen's Road. So much is evident from the opinions expressed in our evening contemporary by various residents who have been approached on the subject. The desirability of the extension is beyond question, but, as the Chairman of the Company has pointed out, the land required is owned by the military authorities, and negotiations to acquire it have so far been unsuccessful. From the practical standpoint, even assuming willingness on the part of the War Department to surrender the land needed for the extension, there is the question of cost to be faced. So far, there has been no indication of how much money would be required to cover the purchase of the land and the carrying out of the scheme, but obviously it would be considerable. The question naturally arises whether there would be any prospect of the Company being able to recoup itself for the heavy expenditure involved. Already, the effects of motor competition are being felt, and when the new motor road to Magazine Gap is opened up, as it will be within a few months, this factor will be even further emphasised. Granting the desirability of bringing the terminus nearer to the centre of the town, the question, so far as the Company is concerned, resolves itself into the most economical method of making the extension. Actually, the problem is not one of great magnitude; it involves the devising of an expeditious means of covering the three hundred yards of road between the existing terminus and the down-town level. The simplest and least costly method would appear to be the provision of a feeder service by the Company. This could be done by utilising motor buses for the purpose. The great advantage of this plan would be that the terminus could, in effect, be brought even nearer still to the centre of the city than the foot of Garden Road. Buses, operating, say, from Chater Road, could provide a service fitting in with the tramway timetable. To residents and tourists alike, such a feeder service would be a marked improvement on existing conditions and would be even more convenient than an extension of the tramway down to Queen's Road. It could possibly be maintained on the basis of a five-cent bus fare from the town to the tramway.

NOTES OF THE DAY

STRIKE VIOLENCE

When strikes boil over into pitched street warfare of the kind seen recently in the United States, in Toledo, Minneapolis and San Francisco, beyond doubt they cease to rank as industrial disputes and come perilously close to class war. The violence of San Francisco has a significance far more weighty than is involved in an argument between workers and employers. It is futile, that is, to try and understand the troubles by discussing the specific demands that the longshoremen are making and the refusal of the employers to negotiate except upon their own terms. Fighting, as serious, that witnessed last week has a deeper reason than disagreement about conditions of employment.

PHYSIC SCAR

Something is on the workers' minds—something that makes them angry and reckless enough to risk policemen's clubs, tear gas, and national guardsmen's bayonets. No matter how much we may deplore the result, it would be foolish if no attempt was made to find out just what it is that is wrong. It seems highly probable that basically the trouble comes from a deep discontent with the way the recovery programme is working out. The United States is just emerging from a period of extreme hardship. All have suffered during the depression, but few have had quite such a thin time of it as the wage-earner. It has left him with what might be called a psychic scar that will be a long time healing.

SAME OLD WAY

Bearing that scar, the worker makes ready for the new deal and finds that in many cases it is being played with the same old cards, in the same old way. Fine words about human rights have been said at Washington, but they haven't been put into effect. There are still employers who look back to Homestead for lessons in the way to handle labour troubles. There are still officials who forget that they are representative of all residents in a State and are not entitled to take sides in an industrial dispute. And Washington still postpones the job of formulating a definite and clear-cut labour policy. All this, of course, does not excuse the violence. It does not bring dead men back to life, or make it right to toss bricks at policemen and troopers. But it does help in understanding and it is vital that we get such understanding.

FORCE—OR REASON?

Then again, those American citizens who like Socialism or class warfare least should be most concerned about the tear gas method of combatting them. One of the best ways of creating bitter feelings, intensifying opposition to the employers are the tear-gas manners of City and State authorities. In the deplorable events of the past few months, America has been far too speedy in resort to counter-violence of an extreme type and almost every incident has been aggravated. The spirit of these times reflects, it would seem, an attitude that has been all too common in political thinking by the privileged and those placed in authority—conveniently forgetting who placed them in their positions. It is the same attitude that preserves the use of force in settling differences between nations, the old, old belief that force is really an adequate substitute for reason.

PARENTS AND MOVIES

Where lies the responsibility when children see undesirable motion pictures? The responsibility of the producers is too obvious to need discussion—but what measure of it belongs to all parents? Some are only too aware of their responsibility, but feel quite unable to cope with the problem. The argument presents itself in this light: "All neighbour boys and girls go to the pictures continually, so how can I possibly keep Tommy at home?" This may seem difficult, but where the programme is undesirable it is an inescapable duty. That is partly the spirit behind the "League of Decency" organised by the churches in the United States, which has already made the film industry think. Nevertheless, a movement of Blue Stockings is obviously liable to become a confused nuisance and an imposition. When films for adults are in question, the individual judgment of suitability is as sound as any, in the long run.

We offer this suggestion as a constructive contribution to the discussion now proceeding, and as one which, whilst catering to public needs, would not involve the Company in heavy capital outlay.

BACK INTO THE DOGFIGHT

By VISCOUNT SNOWDEN

I HAVE not taken an active part in politics since I resigned from the Government eighteen months ago. My time has been occupied with other work, which is now finished. I did not retire in 1931 to do this work. I should have been in the Government now had that been possible. My difference with the majority of my colleagues on the tariff question was not the only reason for my resignation. The general policy of the Government was clearly tending in directions I could not approve. I became convinced that if I remained in office I should be committed to the support of a Government which had lost its national character and become a party government.

The Prime Minister has become a mere Tory instrument. The Labour point of view and the Labour programme received from him no consideration. He fought for neither.

The Prime Minister had declared that it was a Government where the three parties constituting it would contribute their own views, and that out of this pooling of ideas a great constructive programme would be evolved.

But it was impressed on me that there was only one party policy which would be accepted, and that the Government was rapidly falling into the rut where all former Governments had floundered, and that it would muddle along without any conception of the urgent need for a new inspiration in government. Events have tragically justified my anticipations.

In my letter of resignation I said: "I have no party allegiance; but I hope to be able to serve in an independent political position the causes in which I believe; and to help according to my lights to promote the welfare of my country."

I am now free to carry out that intention. The national situation calls for all the nation's reserves as loudly as it did in 1931.

Conditions to-day are not normal. Never in our history, probably, was the national situation more critical; never more full of menace; never was the call to action more imperative. The time is past when the nation could muddle along in the old, complacent way, waiting for things to right themselves. The present situation calls for new policies, new aims, and a clear vision. It calls for courageous leadership.

A vast number of people are losing their faith in Parliament as an institution capable of redressing grievances and grappling adequately with social evils. It is idle folly to imagine that this country is immune from the influences which have overthrown democratic government in other lands.

If the responsible leaders of the nation cannot, or will not, face up to the new situation they run serious risks of being overthrown by wild and passionate adventurers promising a short cut to prosperity. Old party ties no longer command the support of independent followers. The general lassitude at elections means more than is generally imputed to it. The small polls are an indication of lost faith in Parliament.

Parliament can yet be saved by a Government which realises the danger, led by men who have the courage and know how to lead. Instead of that we have a Government which gives the impression that its sole concern is to keep itself in office, and which is obsessed by a conceited belief in its own indispensability.

With an offspray without precedent in politics, it advertises its great achievements, and claims credit for a moderate improvement in trade which, if not temporary and artificial, is the result of natural world movements.

The Government looks with complacency upon the continued existence of over two millions of unemployed, and upon an increasing number of families existing on Poor Law relief. The only hope it gives the people is that in ten years' time things will improve!

It has sent out a Commission to explore the derelict districts and to inquire into facts which have been known to everybody for years. Here are vast areas where tens of thousands of men have been out of work for years, and where the population has sunk into a state of hopelessness and despair and of appalling physical deterioration. Juveniles are growing up to manhood without ever having had any employment, and with no prospect other than that of being permanently unemployed.

The old industries have left these districts, never to return. Here is a problem which a Government of action would resolutely tackle by organising large schemes of alternative employment. This Government meets the problem by offering £50,000 for allotments, on condition that private charity raises a similar sum!

These derelict areas are a breeding-ground for Communism and other forms of revolutionary activity. No one could blame, even when he deplores, the wild thinking of these poor people. Nothing could be worse than the present, they argue, and things might be better if they substitute for an inept Parliament some less cumbersome machinery for improving their lot. The Government has been too cowardly to face a recent by-election in one of these distressed areas. But the danger comes not from these human derelicts only. It would not be so menacing if it were so. The restlessness of to-day is widespread.

The present unrest is as prevalent among the middle salary-earning classes as it is among the wage-earning classes. The black-coated proletariat and the workless professional classes are filled with a bitterness of spirit unmatched in previous times.

The British Government, which does not realise all this and which does not set itself to deal with it, cutting away the dead wood of ancient laws and regulations, red tape, decayed precedents, in order to do so, is deliberately encouraging revolutionary activity in our midst.

If it be true, as it undoubtedly is, that Parliament has fallen into contempt, it is equally true that there never was a time when more men and women were interested in economics and politics. In this fact is both menace and hope.

In everything it has done or attempted so far the Government has shown a lamentable lack of leadership. The failure of the Disarmament Conference, led by men who have the

The Very Idea!

RINGING WET

By George

THE telephone hoax is having its repercussions.

Having heard practically every possible excuse from the girl for being late we thought we had her cornered last night when she turned up 20 minutes past the appointed hour.

"Aint I prompt?" she smiled, (we should mention that the girl is not very strong on grammar).

"No you aint," we said darkly. "Only 20 minutes late."

"Why George, you 'phoned up to say you couldn't get here till 7.20 p.m. . . ."

A fierce argument followed which only the theory of the telephone hoax prevented from becoming a fight.

Anyway we now have a little password, so we shall either find the hoaxer or she will have to find a new excuse.

And there has been other trouble too.

The office rang us up just as we were going off for a night swimming picnic.

"Is that you, George? Well you'll have to come to the office and do some work. When can you get over?"

"Sorry. Can't be helped. I should save that for The Very Idea."

"I don't believe I'm wanted at all. It's a joke."

Well you better laugh it off in the office or explain to the Old Man in the morning.

"I'm not coming over. It's a hoax."

And thereupon we rang off and trotted away.

Came the dawn.

We have just left the Old Man still only partly convinced. Nowadays we don't want to hear a telephone ring.

There is a chit on our desk to the effect that Vilson has rung up inviting us to tiffin.

We tear it up and throw it into the waste paper basket.

THE HORSE.

(Extracts From Little Ada's Exercise Book)

The horse.

The horse is a noble animal and has been called man's best friend ever since (or because of) the Garden of Eden. (though teacher says it was a snake what done the trick and not the apple).

Some horses are built for speed but others only look that way.

Teacher says that racing is a wicked sport and that it hurts the horse's feelings when money is placed on its chances of winning. The horse feels that the game is the thing and will often slow down behind the other horses so as to have the fun of trying to catch them up.

If it fails to do so it will take its defeat in a sporting manner and smiling bravely at the owner, its large brown eyes will seem to say: Never mind, master, I am not discouraged.

The admirable thing about a horse is that it never gives up. If it is entered in a long race it insists on finishing the course if it takes half an hour longer to do it.

The horse can easily be distinguished from the owner as the latter is invariably seen with a cigar.

Another motorist has reported that his "Baby" has been kidnapped and long grass in the vicinity is being diligently thrashed by the police in the hope of solving the mystery.

The car was driven away from Statue Square and it is believed that violence must have been used as the owner indignantly declared to us this morning that nothing short of a gallon of milk would induce it to follow a stranger. A certain amount of force majeure attaches to the crime as the car was parked under the statue of Queen Victoria.

A wit who suggested that the pockets of the statues be searched was curiously informed by the I.G.P. that he was not amused. However he left a bottle of milk on the baby's parking site and examined the statues next morning when the milk had disappeared without the return of the truant.

Suggestions have been made to prevent a repetition of those wholesale removals, either by taking off the wheels of the car and taking them home or letting parked cars to street sleepers at a nominal fee.

General Johnson Tired

SUGGESTS BOARD FOR N.R.A.

Washington, July 10. General Hugh Johnson, Administrator of the N.R.A., appears finding the job too much for him and is anxious to hand over.

It was learned to-day that General Johnson has recommended President Roosevelt to appoint a Commission to direct the National Recovery Administration and to allow him to retire.

He stated: "I have recommended to the President that this won't be a one-man job when it passes into the field of administration."

"I have suggested a Board or a Commission."

Asked whether he would continue in office until the next Congress meets, General Johnson answered that that is probable, although he would like to get away as soon as possible.

"I am prepared to stay as long as the President thinks he needs me,"—Reuter.

BARTHOLOMEW AGREEMENT

French Ministers, which were concluded at the Foreign Office this morning, have made it possible for the two Governments clearly to appreciate their respective points of view on the questions under discussion.

"These questions have included the French proposals for additional mutual security in Eastern Europe, the future of the Disarmament Conference and preparation for the Naval Conference of 1935."

"In connection with this last point Monsieur Pictet will remain in London for a few days longer."

LUNCH WITH MR. BALDWIN. This morning's conversations lasted two and a half hours and at their conclusion, the two French Ministers, accompanied by Sir John Simon, crossed over to No. 11 Downing Street to take luncheon with Mr. Stanley Baldwin.

In the afternoon, the naval conversations were continued at the Foreign Office between M. Pictet and Sir John Simon and Sir Bolton Byres-Moncell.—British Wireless.

RUSO-JAPANESE RELATIONS

MILITARY MEASURES IN MANCHURIA

Harbin, July 11. It is reliably learned that 12,000 Chinese labourers recruited inside the Great Wall have been sent to the north-western Manchurian border, assigned to work on the construction of highways, trenches and other military defence works along the border near Manchuli. Japanese garrison forces at Manchuli and Chalanor have been increased.

According to a Soviet report, a group of White Russians were recently discovered engaged in spying for the Japanese at Khabarovsk. The latest developments indicate that Russo-Japanese relations are strained.—Central News.

KIPPAX ILLNESS

CARRIER OF DIPHTHERIA GERM

London, July 10. It is learned that Alan Kippax has been ascertained to be a carrier of the diphtheria germ and is being kept at Manchester under medical observation. The swab taken of Kippax's throat was not definitely negative and he too is in hospital in Manchester.

The remainder of the team proceeded to Sheffield for the match against Yorkshire.—British Wireless.

SILVER MARKETS

STEADY IN LONDON & NEW YORK

Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz have received the following cabled advices on the state of the silver markets:

London, July 10.—The market was steady after the fixing on small Indian buying.

New York, July 10.—The silver market is virtually dead, but remains steady at the London parity. The Treasury continues inactive.

Shanghai in the Heat Wave.—Top—Fortunate idle enjoy dip in Hongkew Swimming Pool. Thousands of people chose this method of finding relief from the sun's sweltering rays. Inset—A coolie takes a noon day siesta in an endeavour to forget about the heat.

HEAT WAVE RETURNS

SHANGHAI AGAIN SWELTERS

CHINESE AND THE RAIN GODS

Shanghai, July 11. Disastrous failure of all crops in the great provinces of Chekiang and Kiangsu seems certain unless the drought is soon broken.

Petitions have been sent to the Mayor of Greater Shanghai and to the provincial authorities by a group of prominent and influential Chinese urging them to forbid the slaughter of domestic cattle for one week to appease the rain gods.

The heat wave has again swept back to the Shanghai area and for hundreds of miles around, after a short spell of comparatively milder weather when the temperature dropped to below a hundred.

The relief was only short, however, and purely relative. No rain has fallen; it was just not quite so blazingly hot as it was.

Yesterday, however, the mercury again climbed and 101.8° were registered in Shanghai. The farmers of Chekiang and Kiangsu are constantly praying for rain to save their crops.—Reuter.

RICE LOOTING IN CHEKIANG

Hangchow, July 11. The persistence of the drought in Chekiang has forced market prices to prohibitive height. As a consequence, an outbreak of rice looting by coolies occurred at Changnan, a town to the north-east of Hangchow.

At Hangchow, hundreds of people are queuing up outside the offices of charitable organisations, which sell rice to them at a cheaper price.—Central News.

CHIHLI FLOODS

YUNGTINGHO RISES 17 FEET

Peking, July 11. Northern Chihli and places west of Peking are jeopardised by flooding, following incessant rain.

Some of the low-lying areas are many feet under water, and much damage has been done to property and crops.

The Yungting River, to the west of Peking rose by seventeen feet on Monday, but receded about five feet yesterday afternoon.

BENEFIT CONCERT

FOR SERGTS WIDOW AND CHILDREN

A grand variety benefit concert is to be held in the China Fleet Club Theatre on Wednesday, July 25, for the widow and two children of the late Sergt. Frank Richardson, of the R.A.O.C., who died last week. Many well-known local artists will appear.

The arrangements are in the hands of the committee who have been responsible for running the tombola and whist drives for the entertainment of the troops in Hongkong.

Reserved seats will be available at $2.50 and $1, and unreserved at 50 cents. Further details will be published later.

KOWLOON TONG PIG SHED NO PERMISSION FOR STRUCTURE

Chau Kee, 71, and Chau King, 48, were charged before Mr. Lee at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning with occupying and erecting a wooden shed on Crown land at Beacon Hill in Kowloon Tong without a permit.

Mr. W. Routley, of the P.W.D., said defendants had occupied the land for about three months, during which time they had been told to move on no fewer than eight occasions.

His Worship:—Would they get a permit if they applied for one?

Mr. Routley:—No, your Worship. The defendants rear pigs and there is no chance of a permit being issued to them in that locality at Kowloon Tong. The residents would be complaining.

His Worship imposed a fine of $25 or one month, and ordered the dwelling to be removed.

NEWFOUNDLAND AFFAIRS DEVELOPMENT PLANS OUTLINED

London, July 10. Answering a Parliamentary question regarding the economic situation in Newfoundland, the Dominion Secretary, Mr. J. H. Thomas, said the Commission of Government had already made considerable progress with development schemes in Newfoundland and Labrador, and authority had recently been given for special development expenditure of £1,300,000, to be financed by long-term loans from the Colonial Development Fund.

This expenditure would be devoted to the building of fishing vessels for purchase by fishermen on the instalment plan, to road construction with a view to facilitating agricultural settlement, and to development of a harbour at Port au Basques, the railway terminus on the west coast.—British Wireless.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

IT IS TIME TO FEAR WHEN TYRANTS SEEM TO KISS.—Shakespeare.

Suffering from scalds caused by the accidental upsetting of a pot of boiling water, a Chinese mess boy at the Warrent Hotel, St. James, was taken to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday for treatment.

Mr. F. A. Britton, of St. Stephen's College, accompanied by his wife, will leave for Shanghai on the Empress of Russia on Friday. After a short stay in the northern city, they will join the Empress of Japan for Vancouver.

Ng Wo, unemployed, was given a total of nine months' hard labour by Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistrate's Court this morning, for breaking and entering the first floor of 292 Lockhart Road and stealing two wooden partitions, and possession of a chisel for an unlawful purpose. Detective Sergeant Fitches prosecuted.

The Hongkong International Photographic Society start their series of instructive talks to-morrow (Thursday), when, at 8.30 p.m. in the S.C.M. Post Board Room, Mr. P. A. Dragon will give an address on—"Hints on Competitive Photography," with special reference to the Telegraph Competition. Members and their friends are cordially invited to attend.

The wedding is announced to take place on August 22 at the Union Church, Kennedy Road, of Mr. Reginald Robert Davies and Miss Dorothy Maude Biggs. The Rev. E. G. Powell will officiate at the ceremony, while Mr. A. C. Beck will be best man. Mr. Davies, who resides at 500, The Peak, is a member of the staff of Mackintosh's Ltd. Miss Biggs, who arrives in the Colony on August 18 by the Blue Funnel liner Hector, hails from Southwick, near Brighton.

The Society for the Protection of Children gratefully acknowledges the following donations, received through the Hon. Sir Sheouan Chow and Mr. Kwok Chan:—Mr. Tam Shiu-hong, $100; Mr. Choi Po-fun, $100; Mr. Ho Chung-chai, $100; Mr. Chan Wai-man, $100; Mr. Lo Chung-wa, $100; Mr. Kwong Tze-ming, $100; Mr. Lui Chai-nan, $100; Mr. L. N. Chau, $100; Mr. Wong Pak-kun, $100; Mr. Lau Sing-nan, $100; Mr. Ho Tien-wan, $100; Mr. M. K. Lo, $100; the South China A.A., $30; also from Mr. J. G. Pilcher, $50.

The Y.M.C.A. tea dance which was fixed for Thursday, has been cancelled and will be held on Wednesday, July 18.

Mr. A. T. Hamilton also leaves on the Empress of Russia for Vancouver, where he will join his wife, who left on a holiday a short time ago. They will both return to the Colony on the Empress of Russia.

One case each of diphtheria, meningitis and puerperal fever, with one death, two cases of typhoid with one death and 63 deaths from tuberculosis were reported during the week ended July 7. There was a clean bill of health for the Colony on Monday.

Leaving the Colony on the Empress of Russia on Friday, are Mr. and Mrs. G. Findsen; Mr. R. Y. Frost, who is a member of the staff of the Asiatic Petroleum Co. in Canton, and his wife; Miss H. D. Sawyer, headmistress of the Diocesan Girls' School, and Miss E. S. Atkins, headmistress of St. Stephen's Girls' College.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Society for the Protection of Children wish to acknowledge donations as under:—Mr. Rudolf Friml, $15; St. Joseph's College, $12; Mons. P. de Roux, $2; Mons. We have received a copy of The International Accountant, the official organ of the International Institute of Accountants, published quarterly by the Institute, of which Mr. S. Phoon, of 185 Johnston Road, is the local registrar. One of the advantages of membership in this Institute is that, if necessary, members may be transferred to the register of members of the International Institute of Accountants (Inc.) Great Britain, South Africa (Chartered), Canada and branches in other parts of the world, the latter being sister organizations affiliated with the Australian body. Mr. Phoon will be pleased to furnish those interested with a copy of the Journal, recent examination papers and syllabus. The next examination will be held in December at the School of Accountancy, Hongkong.

LOST BICYCLE RECOVERED

DETECTIVE'S SMART WORK

Good work on the part of a Chinese detective attached to the Hunghom Police Station was responsible for the recovery of a bicycle stolen on June 10 and the arrest of the culprit.

This was revealed at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning when Lam Kau was charged before Mr. Lee with theft of a bicycle belonging to a student, Chow Lun-kee, living at No. 202 Keelung Street.

Sergeant Whelan stated that the complainant went swimming on June 10 and left his bicycle, which was worth $20, on the beach. On his return half an hour afterwards, he found the bicycle was gone.

Acting on information, a Chinese detective went to a village in Kowloon City and recovered the bicycle. He also arrested the defendant who admitted the theft.

Sentence of six weeks was passed.

LANCASHIRE CREEPING UP ON SUSSEX

LEADERS HELD TO A DRAW BY ESSEX: NOTTS WIN

London, July 10. Although Sussex were held to a draw and Lancashire gained a substantial win against Northants, there has been no change in the leadership of the county championship.

Yorkshire dropped further back thanks to a first innings defeat by Surrey, and Kent, who were up to the beginning of last week in third position, found themselves half-way down the table as a result of losing further points.

With hard and dry wickets the general experience, the bat beat the ball in the majority of games, and three encounters were left without any definite result.

Gloucester and Lancashire both won handsomely against weak teams. Northants added further to their miserable record by losing by an innings to the Red Rose.

In this match Tyldesley was the outstanding batsman, compiling 122, allowing Lancashire to aggregate 409.

Against the deliveries of Sibbles and Parkinson (the latter a comparatively "unknown" player), Northants could make no sort of a show, and were rapidly disposed of for a total of 341 in two innings.

SMART GLOUCESTER WIN.

Gloucester scored a smart victory against Glamorgan. They were 103 runs behind on the first innings, but the Welshmen collapsed in their second innings, leaving Gloucester to score 237 to win. These were obtained for the loss of three wickets.

Notts completely outplayed Warwick to win by ten wickets, despite some fine batting by Santall, who in the losers' first knock scored 130, and followed this up with an 81.

The veteran Philip Mead again enjoyed himself at the expense of Kent, hitting up 198. He received good support from Kennedy (130) and Hampshire finally totalled 528. Kent made a bold reply, and thanks largely to Frank Woolley (122) saved the follow-on. Kent scoring 400, Hampshire played out time hitting up 212 for 6.

TWELVE HUNDRED RUNS.

No less than twelve hundred runs were scored in the Sussex v Essex match, and a conclusive result was out of the question. Sussex took first innings points, due to a big score of 461 for 6 declared. Chief run-getters were A. Melville (95) and John Parks (95).

Essex responded well with 321 and forced Sussex to bat again. They hit up 215 for 3 and then declared, but Essex easily saved the game, playing out time by compiling 204 for six wickets.

Facing a score of 372, Surrey did well to beat Yorkshire on the first innings. Mitchell batted brilliantly for the champions to score 181, while Gover's figures of 6 for 102 expressed a remarkable piece of bowling.

An innings of 123 by Watt, and substantial contributions by several other players saw Surrey aggregate 465 in reply, and they then dismissed Yorkshire for 277 in their return to the crease.

Surrey did not have an altogether easy time in their last innings, and at the close had lost four wickets for 46 runs.—Reuter.

RESULTS AT A GLANCE

COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP.

Lancashire (409) beat Northants (200 & 141) by innings and 68 runs.
Gloucester (205 & 237-3) beat Glamorgan (108 & 133) by seven wickets.
Sussex (461-6 dec. & 215-3 dec.) beat Essex (323 & 204-6) on first inn.
Hampshire (528 & 216-6) beat Kent (400) on first innings.
Surrey (465 & 45-4) beat Yorkshire (372 & 277) on first innings.
Notts (442-8 dec. & 26-0) beat Warwick (244 & 223) by ten wickets.

TEST MATCH.

England (627-9 dec. & 123-0 dec.) drew with Australia (491 & 66-1).

LEAGUE OFFERS TO LARWOOD

Australia Rings Him Up For News

And still they grow—these stories about Larwood, the Notts and England express bowler.

The latest is that a leading Lancashire League Club was to offer him £40 a week to play for them, with £10 a week in the winter; and that this season might be his last in first-class cricket.

The £40-a-week story was treated as a joke by Lancashire League officials.

It is, however, a fact that offers have been made to Larwood to play in League cricket.

Larwood admitted this to a press correspondent.

But he added that he had not accepted any offer and was not likely to do so.

So much interest is being taken in Larwood that he was rung up from Australia at 6.30 in the morning and asked for an interview. He refused to say a word.

CHINA AND 1936 WORLD GAMES

Decision To Send Team To Berlin

Nanking, July 6. China's participation in the World Olympics to be held at Berlin, 1936, was decided on at a meeting of the Physical Education Committee of the Ministry of Education yesterday. The National Amateur Athletic Federation will be entrusted with the duty of making arrangements.

It was also decided that the Ministry of Education be requested to order the various Provincial Departments and Municipal Bureaux of Education to introduce physical culture courses in the normal schools. The standard of the curriculum will be announced at an early date.

Peiping, Tainan, Tsingtao, Hankow, Changsha, Nanking, Hangchow, Shanghai, Canton, Nanning, and Kueilin were designated as experimental centres for the enforcement of courses in Chinese boxing, the Provincial and Municipal education authorities to direct the schools to carry out the experiment.

Provisional regulations governing the establishment of public recreation grounds were adopted and will be submitted to the Ministry for enforcement.

The establishment of recreation grounds for children and the promotion of physical education among the masses with the assistance of the police and the military were also discussed.

Young Frisco Invading Japan

QUEST BY ORIENT CHAMPION

Young Frisco, welterweight champion of the Orient and Young Tarley, contender for feather-weight honours, with their manager, Vicente Castro sailed from Manila last week for a series of two fights each in Zamboanga preparatory to an invasion of Japan where Frisco will meet Tony Gora and Tarley takes on Young Tommy's conqueror.

From Japan Castro and his ambitious fighters will proceed to Australia. And if their invasion proves successful they will continue on to the United States, according to manager Vic Castro.

The departure of Young Frisco and Young Tarley will be sadly missed by local fans as both these boys have made a name for themselves hereabouts. Frisco, it should be remembered, stepped into the limelight when he decisively whipped Young Ignacio Fernandez to annex the welter crown late last year. He successfully defended his title by knocking out Fighting Nelson and Leo Bruno in succession. Frisco is only 18 years old and great things are ahead for him.

Tarley is the logical contender for the feather title. Scores of fight fans believe this boy is the uncrowned king in the featherweight division. Among Tarley's victims have been Ventura Marquez, Rush Bliny whom he knocked in 3 rounds, Joe Mosquino, Joe Paraiso and several other top notchers.

ABOVE: By capturing the 100 and 200 metre dashes, Butler, Bob Kiesel of California proved one of the outstanding stars at the annual Intercollegiate A.A.A.A. track and field championship in Philadelphia. Here you see him setting a new record in the 200 metre sprint as he broke the tape in 20.9 seconds. Kane of Cornell, and Blackman, of Stanford, finished second and third respectively.

WYATT'S DECLARATION PROBABLY COURTESY GESTURE: TEST MATCH PETERS OUT

SURPRISING BATTING BY SUTCLIFFE AND WALTERS IN ENGLAND'S SECOND INNINGS

THE Australians proved themselves to be true fighters at Manchester yesterday, and the manner in which they averted defeat was very gallant.

FOR the last two wickets to add 68 to the overnight score on a wicket which had already yielded over 1,000 runs in three days was something worthy of the best traditions of Australian cricket, especially when one takes into account the fact that one of these batsmen should have been in hospital.

IT is slowly becoming an established practice for sick or injured Test cricketers to save their side.

CHIFFERFIELD'S performance yesterday when he batted under distressing circumstances and for all intents and purposes against doctor's orders, was reminiscent of Paynter's effort in Australia during the last visit, when he left a sick bed in hospital to bat for England, and pull the game round.

THE English attack did not cover itself in glory yesterday morning. In fact the figures of our fast bowlers make very melancholy reading. Clark sent down 40 overs to concede 100 runs for one wicket, and Allen bowled 186 balls to concede 113 runs without obtaining a victim.

VERITY alone returned worthy figures, but he could make no impression yesterday morning, all his success coming the day before.

THE cables complain of the English fielding, which was apparently very ragged at times. Hendren and Hammond are singled out as chief offenders, although this probably applies to the earlier part of the Australian first innings, and not to the initial stages of the last day's play.

ON the other hand Hopwood appears to have lost a wonderful chance of making Australia

follow-on, by wild throwing-in. Leslie Ames did not appear to have a very happy time behind the stumps. Forty three extras need a lot of explaining away, even if Allen was consistently bowling wides and no-balls.

WYATT'S second innings declaration has been described, in a critical way, as "surprising", although it seems reasonable to suppose that it was a courtesy declaration to allow the sick Australian players to escape fielding in the hot sun. Once sufficient number of runs had been scored to make the game safe, there was really no reason why Wyatt should not send the Aussies in to bat.

THE "surprising" thing about England's second innings was not so much its declaration, as the painfully slow methods adopted by Sutcliffe and Walters. One would have expected them to have a "dip and a splash", for apparently the wicket proved fairly harmless, and there was certainly nothing to lose by a bit of enterprise.

IT would not have made any difference to the result. Once Australia had saved the follow-on, a draw was inevitable. But deliberately to drag the game out by wearisome batting tactics must have made the crowd wonder whether there wasn't some truth in the suggested decadence of the game.

QUITE apart from conjectures and theories, figures tell us that at Old Trafford Test records were broken. Both sides laid low the existing record for the highest aggregate in an innings. England with 627 for 9 declared, and Australia with 491. In addition there was a new aggregate for the whole match. The previous best was 1,073 in 1896. Thirty seven wickets fell during that match. But in the one just concluded 1,307 (notice the same figures appear) runs were scored for the loss of 20 wickets.

Lawn Bowls Championship

EXCITING ENCOUNTER ENDS IN DEFEAT OF GITTINS

An exceedingly fine game in the open singles championship of the lawn bowls competition was played on the Indian R.C. Green yesterday when A. Chapman of the Yacht Club beat H. Gittins of the Kowloon C. C. by 22 shots to 17.

The game was very close. On the sixth head the score stood at 6 to 5 in Chapman's favour, while on the 9th head the score was 7 all and again 8 all at the 11th head.

From the 11th to the 17th head Gittins was leading 10 shots to 8 but Chapman playing inspired bowls, levelled the score at 10 all on the 22nd head. On the 24th head the score was again level at 17 all. On the 25th head Gittins was lying on shot, Chapman having the second and Gittins the third and fourth while Chapman had two back woods.

With his last wood, Chapman delighted the crowd by trailing the jack to the ditch with a beautiful shot to register three and gain the lead by 20 shots to 17. On the 26th head he scored a two to win the match by 22 shots to 17 and thus qualified for the third round.

Other eliminations from the singles championship were B. W. Bradbury and L. F. Xavier.

Bradbury met his defeat at the hands of G. C. Moss who won by 22 shots to 13 in a match which went to 21 heads.

L. Luck by getting three shots in the last head of his match with Xavier obtained his victory by a narrow margin as up to that head the men had kept closely together.

L. J. Stainton of the Tai Kok R.C. was to have met E. de Souza of the Club de Recoelo this afternoon, but the latter has scratched, Stainton thus entering the third round.

Playing on the Kowloon Docks Recreation Club green, J. Watson defeated J. Smith in the Singles Championship by 22 to 19. Twenty-eight heads were played.

Playing on the Club de Recoelo green, F. J. Jones and A. W. Grimmit beat G. Perkins and E. J. Post in the Pairs championship by 18-18.

AMERICANS BEAT NATIONALS

New York, July 10. The only Major baseball match arranged for to-day was the glamorous all-star match on the Polo Grounds between the pick of the American and National Leagues.

The greatest players of the National League were pitted against the American League stars, captained by Bill Terry and Joe Cronin respectively.

The American Leaguers won a brilliant match by nine runs to seven.

The game was preceded by the unveiling of a memorial to the late J. J. M. McGraw, last year's pilot of the National League All-Star team.

52,000 DELIRIOUS FANS. To-day's match opened before 52,000 delirious fans, who were agog with an enthusiasm comparable to the World Series.

BOWLS CHAMPIONSHIP WALK-OVER.

T. FERGUSSON GIVEN CAME BY A JONES.

The Hon. Secretary of the Hongkong Lawn Bowls Association announced this morning that A. Jones had conceded a walk-over to T. Fergusson in the singles championship.

The postponed match between E. W. Simmonds and A. S. Gomes will be played at the Kowloon Bowling Green Club to-morrow (Thursday).

Frankie Frisch homered for the Nationals in the first innings after Babe Ruth, Gehrig and Foxx had been struck out in succession.

Scoring two, six and one runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings respectively, the Americans indulged in a batting spree, slugging Warneke, Mungo, J. Dean and Frank House mercilessly after Hubbell had fanned six players in the first two innings in thrilling style.

NATIONALS' 4-RUN LEAD.

Frisch and Joe Medwick homered for the Nationals, who led four-nil at the end of the third inning. Ruffing, Harder, and V. Gomez pitched for the Americans.

The American Leaguers scored their nine runs from 14 hits, and committed one error, while the Nationals scored seven runs from eight hits and were guilty of one error.—Reuter.

BRITISH COTTON LOOM FIGURES

London, July 10. The total number of world cotton looms at the end of 1933 shows little change, as compared with 1930, the decrease being 28,800.

The European total is 97,646 lower mainly as the result of a decrease of 104,935 in Great Britain.

There has also been a reduction of 85,322 looms in the United States, but increases are reported in Russia, Japan, China and India.

The figures have been made available in the second international cotton loom census issued by the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners.

The total number of looms in place throughout the world is estimated to be 3,139,000, which are distributed as follows:

Britain	588,000
Japan	277,000
India	190,000
U.S.A.	614,000

These compare with 3,159,000 looms in 1930, with Great Britain's 693,000, India, 180,000, Japan, 188,000 and America, 699,000.

The proportion of automatic machinery looms in Europe seems to be increasing with remarkable steadiness, there being 13,994 in Great Britain, as compared with 11,810 three years ago. An increase is also shown in Japan from 15,000 to 21,000, but the United States shows a decline.

ment Conference is due in a large measure to its policy of drift and indecision. Other countries complain with some justification that they never knew where Sir John Simon stood. Nobody knows where the Government stands in foreign policy. It would be beyond the power of the ablest intellect to produce a clear statement of British foreign policy.

It is precisely the same in the Government's domestic policy. There is no unity, no definite purpose, no intelligible ideal in anything it attempts.

The Government has an enormous and obedient majority. It would have the country wholly behind it in the most drastic proposals—made. The country would even excuse failures if there were evidence of a real desire to do something of real value.

Even on non-party issues the Government has failed to rise to the expectations of the nation. Public opinion is ready for an attack on slums and overcrowding which would speedily put an end to this hideous evil.

Instead of tackling this problem with vigour, it has been content with paper schemes, and reliance upon other people to do the job.

This housing problem should be tackled as a country would face a war or a pestilence. It is, in fact, a pestilence, and a bold and drastic attack, at almost any material cost, would be gladly supported by the country.

The land question is at the root of the housing problem. The monopoly of the land crowds the population into slums; it extorts extravagant prices for every needed public improvement; it enriches the landowner by allowing him to appropriate land values, which are rising rapidly around every urban area.

The Government, instead of

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET UPWARD

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was upward yesterday. The Wall Street Journal reports:—The market had an upward tendency and was more active, due to cheerful business news, including the Steel Corporation's output and favourable automobile production. Heavy Grain shipments are benefiting Ralls, which more than off-set the Columbia Gas Corporation's commission of its Company dividend in order to conserve the cash position.

Homestake Mining reached the high level of $425.

The Curb market was upward. Bonds were irregular, although they featured the continued strength of United States Government issues.

several reaching new high levels due to the Government's financial position being regarded as very strong. Foreign issues were mixed, while German ruled steady.

The Wheat market was up due to unfavourable foreign crop reports, together with growing public interest.

Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz's New York office reports:—Stocks: Prices again revealed an inclination to advance, in spite of the lack of news, and the market appears to be well bought. Business done: 650,000 shares. Grain: High temperatures over the Far West are spreading fast and it looks like being another hot spell. The whole outlook favours higher prices for both Wheat and Corn. Cotton: The market was firm on the higher Liverpool advices and the continued unfavourable weather in the West.

There was good demand from Spot Houses, while Southern offerings were of a comparatively smaller volume. Rubber: The market was firm reflecting the strength of the primary markets and the scarcity of offerings in the East. There was some good Trade demand here, while in London there was moderate realising on the advance, but sellers were not aggressive. Sugar: Prices are fully steady but the market is dull and featureless.

dealing with this public scandal, has found time to repeal the modest effort which was made by the previous Government to deal with this question. By this act it has shown a petty partisan spite wholly inconsistent with its claim to be a National Government.

The Government has at its head a man whose vanity and weakness and incoherence will be the nation's undoing if he continues in office.

I say this with the deepest conviction: If this Government continues much longer in power the country is faced with disaster at home and abroad.

VIRTUAL END OF O.G.P.U.

"HOME SECRETARY" IN RUSSIA

YOUNG OFFICIAL APPOINTED

Moscow, July 10.

An important change in internal administration in Soviet Russia was finally authorised to-day.

A decree has been issued laying down the composition of the new Commissariat for Home Affairs, which is taking over the extraordinary judicial functions of the O.G.P.U., the secret political police.

The new Home Secretary will also be responsible for safeguarding revolutionary order and the security of the State, the guarding of public property and of the frontier and for the registration of the civil acts of the State.

The Judicial Collegium of the O.G.P.U. which until now has been empowered to sentence an accused to be shot without an open trial is now dissolved.

OPEN TRIALS.

Crimes affecting the security of the State will be tried in the Supreme Court.

Genrich Yagoda, a rising young official, has been appointed first People's Commissar for Home Affairs.

Settlement of this appointment alone has delayed putting the proposal into operation before now.
It is stated that the decree does not imply that the O.G.P.U. has been disbanded, but that the Soviet Government feels that its CANARY IS. REVOLT

FIVE SENTENCED

VILLAGERS TRIED BY MILITARY

Teneriffe, July 10.

The serious outbreak in the Canary Islands last year when a revolutionary strike occurred in a village on one of the islands, the Spanish authorities being defied for some considerable time, had a sequel to-day.

Five of the alleged ringleaders in the revolt were found guilty by court-martial and sentence of death was passed.

Ten other men of the village, who were also tried by the same court, were sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from one to twenty years.

The sentences are subject to confirmation by the Madrid Government.

It may be recalled that two civil guards were killed by the islanders in the course of the disturbances.—

power being established, a milder means of protecting the State is possible.—Reuter.

YAGODA'S PROMOTION.

An exclusive United Press cable states that M. Yagoda was formerly assistant Chief of the OGPU.

The OGPU will be completely re-organised and its organisation will become part of the newly established Department of Internal Affairs.

CHINESE CHARGED WITH MURDER

REMAND TILL MONDAY

As a sequel to the recent outrage in which five British children were thrown into the nullah near the lower Peak tram terminus, a Chinese has been charged at the Central Magistracy with the murder of Michael Fine, the lad who succumbed in hospital to his injuries.

The accused, who was picked out of the nullah at the same time that four of the children were rescued, has been in hospital since. For a time, he was unable to make any coherent statement, and his condition, resulting from a broken thigh and other injuries, was such that he could not be formally charged.

He has, however, now sufficiently recovered to be able to appear in Court, before Mr. Macfayden.

Aged 28 years, and described as unemployed, the accused is Ng Lai-yuen, alias Ng Yick-lan, alias Ng Yick-san, formerly residing at the premises of the Swatow Drawn Work Co.

The charge against him was that he did wilfully murder Michael Fine on June 22.

On the application of Detective Inspector O'Donovan, the accused has been remanded on police custody until Monday, July 16.
